LONG TRENCH CLOSES OVER NATION'S DEAD.

Forty-seven Victims of the Bennington Disaster Simply Laid Away on Loma Promontory.

Day of Deepest Sorrow, When Honored Dead Are Carried Over Rough Road to Huge Grave by the Sea.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN DIEGO, July 23.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Sorrow swayed here today. It was a day of burial—a burial such as all the West never before had known, and has reason to hope never to know again. The nation consigned to the grave noble clay when the young men who perished in the dread disaster of the Bennington were placed in the long, deep trench in the military cemetery on the height beyond the bay.

Casualties compiled up to 2 o'clock this morning, from all authentic sources, show the following totals to date as a result of the horror:

Buried in military cemetery at Fort Rosecrans today, 47; dead now in morgues, 10, awaiting shipments to relatives; dead in fire room of Bennington, still unrecovered, 2; total dead, 59. Injured at various hospitals, 50. Missing, 16. Grand total, 125. Perhaps ten of those in the hospitals will die, and two or three never will see another sunrise.

SAN DIEGO, July 23.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] In a great trench on the eastern slope of Point Loma, overlooking the blue waters of San Diego Bay, the nation has buried its sailor dead. On the summit of a sun-kissed peninsula 400 feet above the sea, two score and seven new-made coffins are sepulchered tonight. Two score and seven graves beneath one giant mound, decked with withering flowers, beneath the solemn stars. The Bennington dead are at rest. Dreamless their slumber, perfect their peace. Wails of anguished, sobs of broken-hearted and bereaved, hushed from their ears forever; no hymn of funeral surf or starlight winds adds aught to their repose; the flag is their winding sheet, beneath the sod.

If simplicity is the emblem of a nation's grief, then indeed are they regretted. No pomp of circumstance marked their burial path. Sorrow enshrouded, but of melancholy grandeur there was none. No soldier guard, no roll of muffled drum or mournful dirge, went with them across the funeral hills. Dust took the place of glitter and for music there was the creak of endless wheels. True, some soldiers and sailors went with them out of town; true, a hollow square of them faced the gaping trench. But from the city's gates to the great grave on the distant slope they journeyed unattended, in rude coffins stacked one upon another, on drays, followed and pressed upon by half a mile of varied vehicles filled with sorrowing civilians.

LITERAL SIMPLICITY.

It was the wish of the commander of the Bennington that a spirit of simplicity should govern the obsequies. With a literalness verging on shabbiness this wish was carried out. Tenders of bands of music by the Mayor of the city were by Capt. Young declined. The opera house was offered for a public service, and declined.

Hearses could not undertake the nine-mile drive to the lofty cemetery grounds because of the evil condition of the road. It was deemed proper not to require the Bennington survivors, or the Fort Rosecrans artillerymen, or the Naval Reserves, to tramp that weary distance, and vans to convey them were not requisitioned. So forty-nine of the heroic victims of one of the most deplorable disasters in the peace annals of the United States navy were loaded in tiers upon drays draped with black muslin and covered between, hidden with the folds of flag and carted, "Over the hills and far away" to their eternal resting place without escort or dirge. Forty-nine, and two were borne back to the town.

FROM THE MORGUES.

At 1 o'clock this morning the removal of bodies from the morgues was begun. It was accomplished by reliefs of eight men each, appointed to this melancholy duty from the local lodges of several fraternal orders. It was the understanding that forty-nine of the fifty-nine dead (the latter total has been increased to sixty by a death which occurred tonight,) should be taken to the Fort Rosecrans reservation cemetery for burial. The remaining ten bodies were to be sent to the homes of relatives throughout the country, by family requests.

After the arrival of the cortege at the cemetery, Lieut. Tobin, whose duty it was to take the coffins as they were received, discovered that among the forty-nine were the bodies of two men whose families had requested their shipment home. These two coffins were placed to one side, afterward to be returned to the undertakers.

Of the forty-nine corpses to be removed from the morgues thirty-three were at Davis & Andersons' in the Plaza; ten were at Johnson & Connel's, on Seventh street, and seven at Wormley & Bradley's on C street. Three drays bearing the latter seventeen coffined bodies were driven slowly through the crowded streets to the Plaza, in the center of town, and there fell in line behind five other drays on whose rough beds rested in tiers of threes thirty caskets, no one of them different from the rest.

On each oblong, stained pine box was fastened a wreath of flowers, offerings from the San Diego Chamber of Commerce. Over each dray-load a huge American flag was flung. On the high seat of each wagon beside the driver sat an undertaker's attendant, his lap and arms heaped with brilliant flowers.

STRANGE PROCESSION.

Precisely at the hour of noon the strange procession set out from the sunny Plaza; at every cross street, as it wound its way with measured pace through the little seaside city, vehicles of almost every sort from the natty "turnout" of private stables down through the unassorted rigs of public liveries to the antiquated carryall of the farming class, fell in behind, until, when the hills outside the town were reached, the cortege had grown to the half of a mile in length, moving silently in an unending curtain of dust, beaten upon by the rays of a mid-July sun.

At the city limits the escorts of the Bennington survivors, fifty-two in number, were nine tars from the government tug Fashion, all under command of Ensign Lacey; and the men of the 115th Company Coast Artillery from Ft. Rosecrans, led by Commandant Scott, and the San Diego Naval Reserves, together with Capt. Lucien Young of the ill-fated gunboat, Capt. Drake of Mare Island Navy Yard, Lieutenant-Commander Bradshaw of the battleship Kentucky, Capt. Rolfe of the coast artillery, Lieut. Tobin of the Bennington, and other army and navy officers, turned from the procession, leaving it to make its way unescorted to the reservation, cemetery, and themselves marched to the wharf, where the government launches and chartered craft took them across the bay to the fort, thence to proceed by a hill-winding road to the burial ground on the heights above—a hot, weary, dust-choked march for all but the officers, but one which the men endured with willing, though heavy hearts.

COFFIN-LADEN DRAYS STALL.

A serious road in places is that which runs nine miles up hill and down to the seaward crest of Loma promontory. The dust lies ankle deep, often concealing "chucks" that

Things A-doing Off Finnish Coast.

Germany and Russia are Mentioned Together and the "Balance" Shakes.

Kaiser Will Advise Peace With Japan if Terms are Not Impossible.

Is Prepared to Predict a Beautiful Licking for Gen. Linevitch.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

BERLIN, July 23.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The Kaiser and the Czar dined together this evening on board the yacht Hohenzollern, off the Finnish coast of Borgo. Nothing has been given out officially, for nothing is known as to just what took place at the conference, but what the Kaiser will advise can be stated on the highest authority, and leaves no doubt that the conference is fraught with momentous importance to the destinies of Europe, if not of the world.

That European alliances are to be readjusted is more than possible. That a re-balance of the world's power is at stake is unquestioned. All Europe will not be surprised if, at the conference, which is to be renewed tomorrow, the Franco-Russian alliance is practically quashed for one between the Kaiser and the Czar.

That the Czar will stake all on the alliance is doubted but little. This will throw France and Italy into the arms of Great Britain. Austria may go with Russia and Germany, but this is not at all certain.

Part of the programme may be outlined thus:

First—That a treaty of peace will be agreed upon with Japan, if the latter's demands are not impossible.

Second—That the Czar will remain on the throne and adopt a policy of still greater repression than that which has been followed of late.

Third—That an understanding will be reached between Germany and Russia which will virtually nullify the Franco-Russian entente.

Those on the inside of affairs declare that the Kaiser was prepared to tell the Czar frankly that the military situation, so far as Gen. Linevitch's army is concerned, is hopeless, and that to continue the struggle will be simply to invite far worse disaster than has yet occurred. The Kaiser is extremely well-informed as to the strength and position of the two armies facing each other in Manchuria, and is confident that Field Marshal Oyama is ready for another blow that will make the battles of Liao Yang and Mukden sink into insignificance.

The Kaiser's most difficult task will be to convince the Czar of the soundness of this opinion. The world must wait for the outcome for a few days or weeks, at least.

MIDNIGHT ALARM.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

ST. PETERSBURG, July 23, midnight.—On the eve of the peace conference and with a suddenness already disconcerting to diplomatic and court circles, the Emperor left Peterhof today on board the imperial yacht Polar Star for a conference with Emperor William, who is cruising on the Hohenzollern in Finnish waters.

The first interview of the sovereigns was expected to take place this evening off the Finnish port of Borgeo, at the mouth of the Gulf of Finland, near Helsingfors. This will be followed by another interview tomorrow, at which Emperor Nicholas will return to St. Petersburg and Emperor William will continue his cruise.

Emperor Nicholas is accompanied by his brother, Grand Duke Michael Alexandrovitch, and a considerable suite.

The action of Emperor William in seeking a conference at this moment is generally interpreted as an assurance of his moral support of Russia in the coming pourparler at Washington and Portsmouth, and to show that German participation in the recent Japanese loan was not a mark of the alienation of German sympathies from Russia. Emperor William, whose keen interest in the lessons of the Russo-Japanese war is well known, has also taken advantage of the occasion to discuss the details with eyewitnesses, and the presence of naval officers who distinguished themselves in the Far East is due to his special request.

COMMENT IN PARIS.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

PARIS, July 23.—Emperor Nicholas's cruise in the Gulf of Finland to meet Emperor William is the subject of much comment in the press. Certain newspapers express the fear that the German Emperor will influence the Russian Emperor over Far Eastern matters, and will hinder the carrying out of the peace programme, while others are of the opinion that Emperor William will seek to estrange Russia from France.

The Journal des Debats says that the first act of Emperor Nicholas on his return to Russia will be looked forward to with particular interest.

FRANCE SATISFIES WITTE.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

PARIS, July 23.—As a sequel to the conference between Premier Rouvier and M. Witte at the Foreign Office Saturday, the Russian peace plenipotentiary held an extended conversation with M. Nelidoff, the Russian Ambassador, after which a special courier left for St. Petersburg, having dispatches for the Emperor.

M. Witte appears to be satisfied with M. Rouvier's assurances that France will adopt every possible means to assist her ally to reach a satisfactory arrangement. The friendly relations of the French government with Great Britain will undoubtedly play a prominent part when the period for a direct exchange of views begins. It is believed that this was the chief point discussed during the conversation at the Quai d'Orsay, but until the lines are defined on which the negotiations will be conducted, France can only promise to use her influence for the best interests of her ally.

The universal desire here is that the result of the conference will be a cessation of hostilities, while the hope is expressed that Russia will be able to find an issue from her awkward situation without sacrificing her national self-respect.

STACKELBERG DILATES.

WANTS VICTORY BEFORE PEACE.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

PARIS, July 23.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Gen. Stackelberg is back from Manchurian battlefields and may be seen any day on the Paris boulevards. He told a correspondent that he did not care to be recognised in Paris, where he is not using his own name, because he does not want to be questioned regarding the war. Nevertheless, he fights anew his campaigns by the hour, over a table, for the benefit of a few friends, a loaf of bread representing the Japanese, a salt cellar the Russians. These objects really represent, according to Stackelberg, the relative volume of Japanese and Russian forces.

He says the Russians are now in better trim to meet the Japanese troops than ever before, and he thinks it will be a great pity if peace be made before one more mighty effort is made to crush the triumph of the Mikado by the "complete rout" of the Japanese army.

Stackelberg insists that, numerically, the Russians are now tolerably equal to the Japanese, which has not been the case since the battle of the Yalu River, and says the Russian artillery is now superior to that of the enemy, while the persistent target practice of the last few months has created the most efficient body of gunners in the world. He thinks the comparative ineffectiveness of the Cossacks the biggest surprise of the war, but adds that it is a good thing that it is at last discovered, since it is now possible to go to work immediately to repair the faults, which consist mostly in lack of drill, and not enough mobility. Stackelberg is silent on the question whether he will return to the scene of war or not.

Although not believing that peace ought to be made at once, he thinks the New Hampshire conference is more than likely to end the struggle, especially if the Japanese do not make a demand to hold Sakhalin permanently, and do not insist on an exhaustive indemnity.

FIGHT AT TUMEN PASS.

COLLISION AT MAHANSAN.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

LONDON, July 23.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] A news agency dispatch says that a desperate fight for the possession of Tumen Pass is progressing. Thirty thousand Japanese under Gen. Hasegawa are impetuously attacking the Russians. Four bayonet charges have been already repulsed with terrible slaughter. The Russians are still stubbornly holding their ground.

Before the engagement became general the Japanese attacked the Russian position fifteen miles below Kaikjord at 9 o'clock at night. The Russians held them at bay until midnight, when they were forced to fall back on their main body. They retired in good order, saving all their guns and losing, so far as known, thirteen killed and forty-seven wounded. There is no confirmation of the foregoing.

The Russians are reported to be holding the north bank of the Tumen River. They are busy entrenching, believing that the main Japanese advance against Vladivostok will be from Northern Korea and Possiet Bay. It is reported that a battle was expected as long ago as July 20.

According to the Tokio correspondent of the Telegraph, a thousand Russian infantry and cavalry, with four guns, came into collision prematurely with 300 Japanese cavalry, Thursday last, at Mahansan. The Russians retreated with great loss. They showed reluctance to fight.

JAPS LAND ONE PARTY

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

ST. PETERSBURG, July 23.—[By Atlantic Cable.] The correspondent of the Novoe Vremya with the Russian Eleventh Army Corps says that Japanese torpedo boats, during a thick mist and rain, approached several bays near Vladivostok, and that they sent a landing party ashore in the Gulf of Gashkevitch, near Possiet Bay.

ZEMSTVOS' FINAL MEETING.

FINANCIAL SUPPORT ARRANGED.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

MOSCOW, July 22.—[By Atlantic Cable.] The final meeting of the Zemstvo Congress yesterday adopted a motion of Prince Dolgoroki that the bureau be granted power to call to the next congress representatives from the outskirts of the empire, and from places where zemstvos are not held and also from various agricultural and financial societies. The bureau is further authorized to enter into an agreement with various organizations and societies.

After arranging for financial support of the congress by taxing delegations, a proposal to invite peasants to the congress was adopted. The congress unfavorably received the suggestion that workmen's organizations be invited, and referred the matter to a bureau.

On motion of Prince Shakoffskoy, it was decided to organize assemblies throughout the country and submit to them the conclusions of the congress representing the scheme of Minister of the Interior Bouligan. A proposal to protest against the repressive measures against the press and the frequency of the death sentence was referred to the bureau. The question of woman suffrage was left open. The congress then adjourned.

BARON KOMURA'S TRAVELS.

WELCOMED AT ST. PAUL.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

ST. PAUL (Minn.) July 23.—Baron Komura, the Japanese envoy to the Russo-Japanese peace conference arrived in St. Paul at 2:45 o'clock this morning over the Great Northern Railway. Although no official welcome was accorded the Baron and his party, they were greeted at the station by several hundred people, included among whom were city and State officials and prominent St. Paul business and clubmen, besides a large number of Japanese residents of the Twin Cities.

The party left at 5:40 o'clock tonight on the Burlington road for Chicago.

PEACE CONFERENCE.

ACTIVE PREPARATIONS MAKING.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

PORTSMOUTH (N. H.) July 23.—Preparations for the peace conference are progressing rapidly and satisfactorily, and by August 5, the day on which the plenipotentiaries are expected to reach Portsmouth from Oyster Bay on board the Mayflower and the Dolphin, all will be in readiness for their reception. The Washington government and the State of New Hampshire are coöperating in the effort to make the surroundings of the conference as hospitable as possible, and are receiving generous assistance from the people of Portsmouth and the adjacent village of Kittery, Me., where the navy yard is located, and Newcastle, N. H., near which the plenipotentiaries will have quarters in the Hotel Wentworth.

Mr. Peirce, the Third Assistant Secretary of State, who is acting for the President in directing the arrangements, left tonight for Washington, where he will provide for the shipment of the necessary furniture for the equipment of the navy general store, which is to be used for the sessions of the conference. As this equipment will be of no use to the government after the conference is over, it will be rented. Mr. Peirce will spend tomorrow in its selection, and it should be in place early next week. Before leaving for Washington, Mr. Peirce had a conference with Admiral Mead, commandant of the navy yard, regarding the details yet to be arranged in connection with the reception of the missions and the sessions of the conference.

DAN LAMONT IN THE BEYOND.

DEATH OF CLEVELAND'S WHITE HOUSE ADVISOR.

End is Reported from the Ex-Secretary's Residence at Millbrook, N. Y.—No Intimation of Illness Had Been Given Out—Began Life as a Newspaper Man.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, July 24.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Col. Daniel S. Lamont, Secretary of War under former President Cleveland, died at 9:15 o'clock last evening at his country residence at Millbrook, Duchess county, after a brief illness. No report of Lamont's illness had reached the newspapers prior to his death, and there was no intimation of it given out at his office in this city.

Lamont was born in Cortland county, N. Y., February 9, 1851. He came of Scotch-Irish ancestry. His ancestors emigrated to this country and became farmers. His father was successful, and the boy, after studying at the normal college of his home town, was sent to Union College, Schenectady, but did not graduate.

He left college to take up newspaper work, for which he had both inclination and talent. He secured an interest in a Democratic paper published in the county seat of Cortland county, and became its editor, at the same time interesting himself in politics.

In 1870 he was appointed engrossing clerk of the New York State Assembly, and was chief clerk in the office of the Secretary of State with John Bigelow. For a time he held a position on the staff of the Albany Argus, and became well known to many of the most influential politicians of the State.

Lamont's real rise began when Grover Cleveland made him private secretary, when Governor of New York. Cleveland took Lamont with him into the White House, and at the beginning of his second term appointed him Secretary of War. His duties as such were nominal, his real position being confidential adviser to the President. At the close of the Cleveland administration he formed an important connection with a group of capitalists in New York, and became actively engaged in the management of valuable properties.

Col. Lamont was president of the Northern Pacific Express Company, vice-president of the Crosstown Street Railway Company, vice-president of the Northern Pacific Railroad Company and Rocky Fork Coal Company, a director of the Farmers' Loan and Trust Company, the Manhattan Trust Company and the Northern Securities Company.

He was a member of the Union, University, Manhattan, Lotus, Riding and Lawyers' Clubs. He was a member of the Presbyterian Church and was a regular attendant with Mrs. Lamont.

HEART FAILURE THE CAUSE.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

POUGHKEEPSIE (N. Y.) July 23.—Heart failure was the cause of death. Mr. and Mrs. Lamont were out driving this afternoon, and Lamont appeared to be enjoying the best of health. After dinner he complained of feeling badly, and Dr. Stewart of New York, who is a guest at the house, immediately went to his aid. The physician diagnosed the case as an attack of heart failure. In spite of heroic treatment, Lamont passed away within half an hour. At his deathbed were Mrs. Lamont and two daughters, Frances and Bessie. Several guests at the Lamont home were also present when the end came.

CLEVELAND AFFECTED.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

NORTH SANDWICH (N. H.) July 24.—When informed, early today, of the death of former Secretary of War Daniel S. Lamont, former President Cleveland, who is spending the summer at his country home here, was deeply affected. He said: "No death outside the circle of my own family could have affected me more. My relation to the dead man in public station and in private life, and in the most affectionate friendship, taught me to know him as an able, conscientious and true man."

AUTOMOBILE INDUSTRY.

Grows by Leaps and Bounds in the United States and France Shows Enormous Progress.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, July 23.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Few American industries have developed by leaps and bounds as has the manufacture of automobiles. In fact, America exports more automobiles than she imports, although the most wealthy men boast of their French and Italian motor cars. For the year ended June 30, 1905, 26,001 machines, valued at $24,650,000, were produced in the United States. Capital of almost $22,000,000 is employed in making automobiles, Ohio leads all other States in the production of motor vehicles, Michigan is next, with Connecticut a good third.

The Herald's Paris correspondent says the following figures published by the Gil Blas show the enormous progress made in the automobile industry in France. In 1900, the importations amounted to f.1,284,130 in value and the exportations to f.10,195,100. In 1903, the importations amounted to f.2,184,000 and the exportations to f.51,739,000. Notwithstanding the multiplication of automobiles, there has been a reduction in the number of accidents.

WRAPPED IN STARRY FLAG.

Paul Jones's Mortal Remains Fittingly Honored.

Solemn Funeral Procession in Line This Morning.

Admiral Sigsbee Speaks of His Memorable Voyage.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

ANNAPOLIS (Md.) July 23.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Eight ships of the American Navy and one French cruiser lay quietly at anchor in the roads in sight of Annapolis this morning. On board the American cruiser Brooklyn, resting on a catafalque, draped and festooned with emblems of mourning and the American flag, under constant guard of two marines, reposed the leaden casket containing the remains of John Paul Jones.

The terrific storm which raged on the Chesapeake Bay last night, and which met the fleet on its arrival at Point Thomas anchorage grounds, had abated during the early morning hours, and the surface of the bay was placid and the sun overhead shone brightly. Hundreds of yachts, launches and pleasure craft plied between the fleet and the shore, while launches from the fleet carrying official messages kept up continuous communication.

Shortly after noon, Admiral Sigsbee left the Brooklyn in the ship's launch, attended by his aide, and made an official call on Admiral Sands, commandant of the Naval Academy. He remained but a brief time, and on embarking again for the cruiser, Admiral Sands preceded him in the academy's launch.

By invitation of Admiral Sigsbee, The Times correspondent entered the admiral's launch and accompanied him on his return to the fleet. Admirals Sands and Sigsbee, in turn, called on the captain of the French cruiser Jurien de la Graviere, after which Admiral Sands called on Admiral Sigsbee officially.

Admiral Sigsbee talked freely to the Times correspondent of the magnificent reception given to the fleet in France and the incidents of the return trip. He says there can be no possible doubt of the complete identification of the body as that of John Paul Jones.

The fleet first sighted the Maine, Admiral Evans's flagship, off Nantucket lightship. The Illinois was the first of the battleship squadron to get into communication with the fleet by wireless telegraphy. The trip up the Chesapeake Bay was made in the face of a driving storm. The formation was double column, Admiral Davis's four battleships leading. The fleet reached Point Thomas, seventeen miles below Annapolis, about 6 o'clock, and dropped anchor for the day at 9:30 o'clock this morning. The fleet appeared in the anchorage grounds two miles below Annapolis, but in full view of the Naval Academy grounds.

The tug Standish will leave the academy dock at 7:30 o'clock in the morning for the fleet; at 9:30, the casket containing the body will be taken over the Brooklyn's side and lowered to the deck of the Standish. The solemn procession will then start, the Standish leading, followed by launches containing the officers and men of the fleet who are to participate. It is thought the body will be landed about 10:15 o'clock a.m., and the exercises of transferring the coffin to a hearse to be conveyed to the temporary vault will occupy thirty minutes.

The exercises will be the formal burial ceremony prescribed by the regulations, and will be conducted by Chaplain Clark of the Naval Academy.

FLAMES SPREADING IN HUMBLE OIL FIELD.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

HUMBLE (Tex.) July 23.—Fire started today in a tank belonging to the Texas Oil Company, caused by lightning striking the oil. The fire was held under control all the afternoon, but began to spread tonight. At 10:30 o'clock tonight, eleven of the twelve great tanks were ablaze, and over one million barrels of oil consumed. Fifty men are surrounded by the flames and their fate is unknown. One hundred teams are known to be cremated, and a number of families have been burned out of house and home.

At 1:20 o'clock this (Monday) morning, the fire is still beyond control, all the tanks of the Texas company having caught. Loss of life among the men handling the teams is reported, but cannot be verified this morning. There will be considerable loss of property beside that of the oil, which in itself may run up to three or four million barrels, worth $250,000 per million barrels.

AT 2 A.M.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

HUMBLE, July 24, 2 a.m.—There is still no confirmation of any loss of life in the fire. The twelve tanks of the Texas company at 2 o'clock this morning are all ablaze, and the entire lot will be consumed. Little rivulets of burning oil are running toward the oil field proper, but a heavy rain has been falling and an electric storm raging, the water serving to keep the derricks from burning. The wokmen have all fled from the field. The town itself is filled with refugees.

WORKMEN PERISHED.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

HUMBLE, July 24.—Covering an area of three-quarters of a mile square, with a great canopy of smoke covering two square miles, the oil tanks of the Texas Oil Company continue to boil and bubble under the great heat of burning oil, the fire having burned all night. When it can be extinguished no one guesses. Certainly not until it has burned all of the oil in the eleven big tanks, which held 2,500,000 barrels when lightning struck them Sunday afternoon.

It is now known that five of the negro workmen perished, and the rumor places the number of dead as high as fifty, though this cannot be confirmed.

There are hundreds of homeless people, many of them only waiting a train to go to Houston for shelter. They were living in tents and shacks in the oil field, and fled for their lives to the town away from danger. They left all their belongings and they have been destroyed by fire, which runs out toward the oil field, though it has not yet been communicated to any of the derricks or wells.

During the whole of the night, there was a heavy downpour of rain, and this covered the ground with a sheet of water, coating which is a thick film of oil. If this waste oil catches fire, then it is probable that the tanks of the Guffey Company, the Sun Company and the smaller owners may go. These tanks hold 4,500,000 barrels of oil.

HEMMED IN.

Shortly after the big tank began to blaze, 200 workmen with seventy-five mules were hurried to the place to throw up earthen embankment to confine the fire to the tank where it originated. Suddenly the oil gave an upheaval, bubbled and lifted a great mass of the burning fluid bodily out of the tank, and the fire was communicated to three other of the tanks. The burning oil caught the men and mules, and hemmed them in. There was a wild scramble for safety, men dropping their scrapers and reins and fleeing. Some of them mounted mules and got out, but at least forty of the mules balked and were cremated.

Five negroes were seen to go down, and it is not believed possible they could have escaped. While all of the men have not been accounted for, these five are all that are certainly known to have perished.

ANOTHER BLAZE.

At 4 o'clock this morning, fire broke out in the steel tanks of the Texas Company at the pumping station, a mile from the original fire. What damage is being done cannot be ascertained yet, because it is impossible to reach that part of the field.

PITH OF NEWS FROM THE MIDDLE WEST.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CHICAGO, July 23.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The weather man for once did his best for Chicago today. The temperature ranged between 62 and 78 deg., and a refreshing northwest breeze tempered the bright rays of the sun. Middle West temperatures at 8 p.m.:

Marie, 56; Springfield, Ill., 76; Springfield, Mo., 76; Wichita, 76; Williston, 72.

ARREST OF "SLUGGERS."

Three men suspected of being sluggers hired by the Teamsters' Union to commit assault upon a policeman during the strike and then paid to leave the city and another who was in their company during a visit to a resort on Morgan street, were arrested, together with two women, by the Desplaines-street police yesterday afternoon. John G. Malliby, James Galley and Michael Gurtin were locked up at the Desplaines-street station, though no formal charge was made against them. Otto Klaus was released after he had convinced the police that he had nothing to do with the case. The women are being held as witnesses.

PECULIAR MURDER CASE.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

TOLEDO (O.) July 23.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] What was in all probabilities a murder was brought to light this morning, when the body of a woman, about 40 years of age, was found strapped to the wall of a closet back of a country schoolhouse near Carey, O. Examination at the undertaker's revealed the fact that the woman wore beneath a fine dress skirt a pair of men's trouser's.

DES MOINES (Iowa) July 23.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Politicians declared today that the railroad interests have arranged Chautauqua dates throughout the State following those of Gov. Cummins, on which they will introduce prominent speakers, who will take up the gauntlet thrown by the Governor in his fight against the corporation interests, and will make an effort to discount his addresses.

STUBBED TOE—LOCKJAW.

FORT WAYNE (Ind.) July 23.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Frederick Treu, aged 40, stubbed his toe last Sunday, and died this morning of lockjaw. He leaves a widow and four children in poor circumstances.

WILFUL PEARL'S INHERITANCE.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

DUBUQUE (Iowa) July 23.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Pearl Martin, an inmate of the House of the Good Shepherd, this city, is heiress of two-thirds of an estate valued at $250,000. The girl was adopted about ten years ago by Mrs. Jane Martin, a wealthy widow of Nevada, Iowa, and was somewhat wilful and inclined to have her own way; in fact, so much so that she ran away from her foster parents and went to Des Moines. About two years ago, she was sent to the home in Dubuque.

NEW ORLEANS (La.) July 23—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The old-time strict quarantine went into effect today, and is to be enforced with absolute impartiality and the most stringency. ...Mayor Herman, the ... All united in believing the mosquito theory of the spread of disease is the only true one, and that the fight will be carried along on that line, which was that followed in Havana.

GOVERNMENT DETAIL.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

WASHINGTON, July 23.—The officials of the Public Health and Marine Hospital Service are working in harmony with those in Louisiana in the efforts to prevent any spread of the yellow fever from which an Italian died yesterday in New Orleans. Dr. A. G. Glennan, acting surgeon general in the absence of Dr. Wyman, who is now in Honolulu, has dispatched Surgeons G. M. Guiteras from Cairo, Ill.; T. H. Richardson from Savannah, and J. H. White from Mobile to proceed to New Orleans and assist the Marine Hospital officials stationed there.

RAILROADS IN A RATE WAR.

CUTTING FARE FROM CHICAGO TO NEW YORK.

Agents Abandon Hopes of Restoring Passenger Tariffs Unless the Leaders Meet and Form Another Trust to Cinch the Public—All Big Roads in the Struggle.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CHICAGO, July 23.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Eastern passenger rates will touch rock bottom next week. All lines have abandoned the hope of ending the rate war until the public has saved a lot of revenue from the clash in the way of cheap fares. Unless the presidents of the railroads meet without delay and agree that the war must stop, the rate from here to New York will drop to $10 or lower within a week. The Michigan Central has anounced that next Monday it will reduce its rates to $16 first class and $15 second class. This meets the rates now in effect by the other differential lines. The Grand Trunk, Erie, Wabash, and Nickel Plate roads announce that next Tuesday they will make another cut of $2 in the rate to New York and corresponding cuts to other eastern points.

The Panhandle and Baltimore and Ohio will put in a $14 rate for first class to New York on Tuesday.

SUGAR-RATE WAR.

MAY END NEXT WEEK.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CHICAGO, July 23.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The sugar-rate war may be ended at a conference at Niagara Falls next week between the executive officers of eastern, western and gulf lines.

Vice-President Hiland of the St. Paul system has telegraphed eastern trunk lines that western and gulf roads will meet them next Tuesday at any place they select for the purpose of ending the war in sugar and coffee rates. A majority of the eastern lines are in favor of holding the peace conference at Niagara Falls.

DUKE DIVORCE CASE.

NEW YORK, July 24.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] A local paper this morning prints a sensational story to the effect that Brodie L. Duke, the tobacco millionaire, has spent a large part of his fortune in the effort to establish grounds for a divorce against Alice Webb Duke, to whom he was married December 19 last. Herbert C. Bruyn, adopted son of C. S. Berry, probably the highest-paid detective in the United States, who was employed by Duke, tells how he "sold out" his foster-father, becoming a "go-between" for the tobacco magnate's representatives and at the same time acting as Mrs. Duke's secret agent. In this way he secured evidence of the alleged plot upon which it is said thousands upon thousands of dollars have already been spent. Mrs. Duke substantiated the story, and also told how, with the ingenuity of her sex, she got into the enemy's camp. She declares she intends, within a week, to go before the grand jury and ask for indictments against Duke, Charles Andrews, his attorney, and Charles Berry.

"ROCKY" CORNERS LINSEED.

BUFFALO (N. Y.) July 23.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] John D. Rockefeller, through the American Linseed Oil Company, has cornered the flaxseed market and has compelled three big independent mills here to close. The price of linseed oil will be advanced 40 cents a gallon. The advance will seriously affect many industries, particularly those of oilcloth, lineoleum, paints, oil, etc., and will undoubtedly cause many workmen to be thrown out of employment. It is estimated that Rockefeller will make a profit of about $20,000,000 on the investment of between $8,000,000 and $10,000,000. By buying up the supply of flaxseed, the Oil King has increased the price of seed to such an extent that independent mills cannot crush it at a profit.

TORNADO WITH A ROAR.

RACINE (Wis.) July 23.—With a roar that was heard five miles, a tornado struck the northern part of Racine county, today, killing two men and damaging property and crops to the extent of $100,000. The storm came from the southwest, and at its first dip struck the large barn of Adolph Lleisner, which was torn to pieces. Trees were uprooted and fences blown away. For miles trees can be seen uprooted and fences down. At a farm in Thompsonville, a workman, whose name is not known, was struck and killed. Near Union Grove, Adam Hunton, an old farmer, was picked up by the storm and his neck broken. At the Haumerson brickyard, lightning struck a shed and six men were stunned.

JOHN A. LOGAN COLLECTION.

SPRINGFIELD (Ill.) July 23.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Illinois is to come into possession of the valuable John A. Logan collection, now in Memorial Hall in the home of Mrs. Logan in Washington. A formal tender of the collection has been made to Gov. Deneen by the widow of the famous Civil War general. While it will be necessary for the Legislature to formally accept the collection, it is certain that provision will be made immediately for the location of the display in the Capitol Building. The collection is extensive, and includes several hundred articles, all of historical interest. Among them is the desk used by Gen. Logan when he was a member of Congress from Illinois. There are gifts from prominent individuals, societies and communities, among them a cabinet containing thirty-seven walking sticks presented by various statesmen; an elegant sombrero, the gift of the President of Mexico, and memorials, resolutions, photographs, paintings and other historical articles are included in the lot.

ARKANSAS "DEMOCRAT" AFIRE.

LITTLE ROCK (Ark.) July 23.—The newspaper and job printing plant of the Arkansas Democrat was burned tonight; loss $125,000.

MAKES GLAD THE FARMER.

Rural Free Delivery Raises Farm Property's Value.

Arrangement for Numbering of Boxes Considered.

Torpedo Boat Flotilla for the Philippines.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, July 23.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] One good reason why the farmers are enthusiastic about country rural free delivery service of mail is shown in the letters received by the Fourth Assistant Postmaster-General. In a communication from Macon, Ga., the writer says that the property values along the lines of the route have greatly increased in the short time the service has been rendered.

Another communication from Georgia says: "Perhaps that which causes the broadest smile on the face of the farmer and that which makes him more independent than anything else is the fact that the telephone and rural mail service have increased the values of land from $10 to $100 per acre."

To facilitate more accurate handling of the mail by rural free delivery, the carriers' department is arranging for the numbering of all the rural letter boxes, which, under the regulations of the department, are entitled to service, and authorizing the delivery by rural letter carriers of ordinary mail matter of all classes addressed to the boxes by number alone, as is now permitted in the case of postoffice boxes.

THAT EXTRA SESSION.

PANAMA CANAL AT STAKE.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, July 23.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] It is generally understood in official circles here that the real work of the extra session to be called November 11 is not to deal with the railroads, but with the Panama canal. Secretary Root has already advised the President that Congress should pass a law at the earliest possible moment relieving the President of a large measure of responsibility and placing it in the hands of commissioners, giving them free hand to go ahead and accomplish results.

In some respects, the situation is similar to that which existed as to Cuba and the Philippines, in 1901. Congress, then being unable to agree apparently on measures defining our relations with Cuba, insisted that the President should go ahead and provide for the government of the island under military authority and for its eventual transfer to the Cuban nation, without any assumption of responsibility by the legislative power of government. Secretary Root reported to President McKinley that thi swould not do, and McKinley that this would not do, and to define our relations with Cuba without delay. Under threats to call an extra session in the spring of 1901, the President forced Congress to pass the "Platt amendment" to the Army Bill.

In the case of the Panama canal, Congress deliberately shirked its duty last winter. The President and Secretary Taft urged it to pass a law which would permit the President to put into operation the necessary human machinery to construct the canal.

Certain members of the Senate thought that if they did not act, the President would be forced to retain in office the old Walker commission, and this was what they wanted. It had been ineffective and was cumbersome. So they prevented any action at the last session.

The President was compelled to act under the old Spooner law, which required him to have seven commissioners. He really desired but three, and Secretary Taft had recommended that the number be reduced to three, in order to get a staff that was workable. The President requested the resignation of all the old commissioners, and then appointed three commissioners whose duties he defined, and four others who were to be figureheads.

FOR THE PHILIPPINES.

TORPEDO BOAT FLOTILLA.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

WASHINGTON, July 23. — Orders have been issued by the Navy Department to prepare the torpedo boats Biddle, Barney, Bagley, Shubrick, Thornton and Tingley for service in the Philippines. The boats are now in the reserve force at the Norfolk navy yard, and to reach their destination it will be necessary for them to travel half way around the world. The department was encouraged to send these small war craft on this perilous voyage by the success of a similar trip made by five destroyers about a year ago. When the flotilla arrives in the Philippines, this country will have a larger force of torpedo boats in Asiatic waters than any other power.

WASHINGTON BRIEFS.

Cotton Leak Investigation.

WASHINGTON, July 23.—Dist.-Atty. Beach tonight announced that the grand jury of the District of Columbia, in pursuance of a call issued July 20, will meet tomorrow to consider, among other things, "certain criminal practices alleged to exist and to have existed in one of the executive departments." This is known to relate to the Department of Agriculture, whose crop statistical reports have been under investigation lately.

GEN. BLACKMAR'S FUNERAL.

Patriotic Organizations of Boston Pay Honor to the Late Commander-in-Chief of the G.A.R.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

BOSTON, July 23.—Veterans of the Civil War, Sons of Veterans, members of the Woman's Relief Corps and other patriotic societies today paid honor to the late Gen. Wilmon W. Blackmar, commander-in-chief of the Grand Army of the Republic.

During the morning, the body lay in state in Memorial Hall at the State House, surrounded by the battle flags borne by the troops of the Commonwealth during the Civil War. The casket was draped with the national colors and guarded by Grand Army comrades. Ten thousand persons passed through the hall and gazed on the face of the dead commander-in-chief.

Among the honorary pallbearers were Lieut.-Gov. Curtis Guild, Jr., former Secretary of the Navy John D. Long former Gov. John L. Bates, former Gov. John Q. A. Brackett and Mayor Patrick A. Collins.

ENGLISH LYNCHING.

Mob of London Peasants Murder an Innocent Man After He Proved He Was Guiltless.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

LONDON, July 23.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] "Lynching in America" is always an attractive head line in the newspapers and many sermons have been preached in the editorial columns warning America to mend her ways. Yet two days ago a man was lynched and carried off dead in a London street in broad daylight practically under the eyes of the police without any notice being taken.

John Jacobs, an elderly dock laborer, was sitting in Victoria Park Thursday afternoon and a little girl was sitting closely. Another workingman passed and looking through the bushes separating him and Jacobs suspected an impropriety. He rushed through the bush and shouted: "What are you up to?" When he understood the charge, Jacobs indignantly repudiated it and accompanied his accuser to the police box in the park. There he established his innocence and was let go, but he was taken out of the park by a constable who at the inquest said: "It is unusual to turn a man out after such an accusation." Hundreds of people assembled and they allowed Jacobs to walk in the middle of the road and then they closed around him and he was struck by several men. Jacobs fell to the ground and he was carried to a nearby horse trough amid cries of "Lynch him; put him in the horse trough." But when the horse trough was reached Jacobs was found to be dead.

No arrests were made at the time and no attempt since has been made to make arrests.

ENLARGING SHOPS.

Southern Pacific Starts Extensive Improvements on Its Works at Kern City.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

BAKERSFIELD, July 23.—The Southern Pacific Company has commenced work on extensive improvements on its shops at Kern City. Several weeks ago it was announced that the roundhouse was to be enlarged and yesterday, when the survey was made for an addition to the roundhouse, it was ascertained that ten new concrete engine pits are to be constructed and that the shops are to be equipped with a new sixty-ton crane and other machinery of modern pattern. Incident to the enlargement of the shops and the installation of the machinery will be a swelling of the force working in the yards and at the shops.

VIOLENT QUAKE NOTED.

VIENNA, July 23.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] One of the most violent earthquakes ever known was indicated by the seismographs of the hydrographic institutes at Laibach and Pola today. Between 3:35 and 4:17 o'clock a.m. the instruments showed extraordinary movements in waves, signifying earthquake catastrophe at a distance of 6000 kilometers (about 3760 miles.) At 7 a.m. the instruments were still vibrating. The distance indicated by the seismographs would locate the earthquakes in Central Asia (the most probable point) or in the mid-Atlantic, or in the Arctic regions, or in South Africa.

ALFONSO'S BERLIN VISIT.

SAN SEBASTIAN (Spain) July 23. —It is rumored that Emperor William has asked King Alfonso to time his visit to Berlin so as to include September 1, the anniversary of the battle of Sedan, but the Spanish government has replied that the King would wish to remain in Spain until the general elections, which take place September 6. The question of the visit was discussed today between Gen. Metero Rios, the Premier, and Herr Von Radowitz, the German Ambassador. King Alfonso will travel to Berlin by way of Switzerland.

MILWAUKEE'S BATTLE FOR CIVIC HONESTY.

Over One Hundred Indictments of Big and Little "Squirts" in Two Years—Two Hundred and Fifty-one True Bills.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

MILWAUKEE, (Wis.) July 23.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] "Graft, graft, graft." That's the story of Milwaukee now, covering a period of nearly two years of active hunting, that has resulted, up to date, in the return of 251 indictments.

Starting a few years ago with the passage of the Milwaukee-street railway companies' "snap" 25-year-franchise ordinance, the corruption has spread in all directions. Two courageous and able district attorneys have grappled with corruptionists, big and little, and just now the battle for civic honesty is being fought furiously.

The following table tells the story of prosecutions up to date, with the results of the trials and the number of cases on the dockets: Found guilty, 13; escaped, 4; cases on court docket, 180; individuals involved in the same, 55. Indictments have been reported at odd times since 1902, but the greatest number have come in the last year. The following table gives details:

| | Persons. | True bills. |
|---|---|---|
| Indicted by former grand jury | 46 | 122 |
| Indicted June 30, 1905 | 21 | 38 |
| Indicted July 11, 1905 | 25 | 67 |
| Indicted July 21, 1905 | 14 | 24 |
| Total | 106 | 251 |

The latest thunderbolt, which fell yesterday, struck Thomas Clancy, chief of the fire department, and William J. Corper, one of the experienced officers of the force, and also William E. Hanrahan, secretary of the department.

WORKING ON INSURANCE.

HENDRICKS KEEPING BUSY.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SYRACUSE (N. Y.) July 23.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Francis Hendricks, superintendent of insurance, said today that, owing to the vacation period in his department, he could not tell when his final report on the Equitable would be ready. Some of his examiners, he said, were yet at work on the affairs of this society, while five or six were busy with the investigation of the Mutual Life. He said he could add nothing to what he already disclosed concerning the mysterious $685,000 loan made by the Mercantile Trust Company to the Equitable Life.

The superintendent is not certain whether he will make an investigation of the New York Life Insurance Company. He says it depends entirely upon what course the legislative investigation takes. The reported investigation of the Mutual, Hendricks says, would be made public in a few days.

HYDE GOING ABROAD.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, July 23.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] James Hazen Hyde has practically decided to leave America forever and spend the rest of his life in France according to the story that is being repeated here. Hyde is convinced that he can never take up life here as it was before the Equitable scandal broke forth. Hyde's extreme sensitiveness to criticism is said to be largely responsible for the decision to expatriate himself.

MORTON MUST MOVE MONEY.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, July 23.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] With the appointment of the Assembly members of the Equitable joint legislative committee by Speaker Nixon, due tomorrow, Paul Morton has received from the State Department of Insurance a strong intimation that it would be well for him to take immediate action in the matter of getting the millions of the society out of the trust companies affiliated with the parent concern and into paying investments.

Morton has been given to understand that about $25,000,000 deposited with the various trust companies and earning only 2 per cent, can be made to earn at least 4 per cent. Before Morton left for Oyster Bay, today, he stated that Mrs. Hyde's pension of $25,000 had not been withdrawn. The matter would be considered with others this week.

AT OYSTER BAY.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

OYSTER BAY, July 23.—Chairman Paul Morton of the Equitable Assurance Society was a guest today of President and Mrs. Roosevelt at Sagamore Hill. Morton arrived at the President's home from New York last evening. He returned to New York this afternoon. As a former Cabinet officer and a close personal friend of the President, he visited him to obtain a brief rest from his labors in connection with the readjustment of Equitable affairs. Assurance is given that his visit was not of serious public significance.

While he excused himself from a general discussion of Equitable affairs, Morton admitted, in response to a direct inquiry today to a representative of the Associated Press, that a proposition to discontinue the pension of $25,000 a year now paid to Mrs. Henry B. Hyde, widow of the founder of the Equitable Society, was under consideration. The pension, however, has not been discontinued yet.

It was made clear by Chairman Morton that Mrs. Hyde's pension is to be considered with other pensions now paid by the society; that is, her pension will not be discontinued, if at all, as an exception.

"TRULY GOOD MAN" IS ROCKEFELLER.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, July 23.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] According to the official biography of John D. Rockefeller, just issued by the government, the Standard Oil king is a truly good man—entirely different from the money-mad monopolist pictured by Miss Tarbell and others. The government is now distributing broadcast to every school and library in the country a series of sketches of "educational benefactors," got up by the Commissioner of Education in the Department of the Interior. Carefully tucked away in the series is a character study of Rockefeller. His career is traced from the cradle to the present. Not a criticism, not a single harsh word, not even the slightest insinuation against his motives has crept into the sketch. It is said that Rockefeller's attorney is preparing to republish the eulogy, as a complete answer to all that has ever been uttered against him. Here are some of the extracts:

"The family, the school and the church were centers in which his character was formed. In his home, prudence and economy prevailed. The Christian virtues were cultivated. In church, he was careful to attend services, not only upon the Sabbath, but in the midweek also. He sought to stimulate others to fulfill religious obligations, especially to pay off the church debt.

"He early found out that what he was to be must come out of his own ability and attainments and the opportunities afforded him. His qualities were early manifested; he discriminated between the real and the false. He early became superintendent of his church Sunday-school and remained in that responsibility thirty years. His fondness for children was very manifest. His own experience had taught him how it might be used."

John D. Rockefeller's career in the oil industry is thus briefly covered: "He early began to appreciate the efforts to secure cheap lighting illumination. Crude petroleum was offensive to the smell. He saw what was needed, and out of his school chemistry he was aided in devising methods of purifying crude oil, saying to one of his teachers: 'I think I can relieve this substance of its offensive smell.' His efforts were successful. Whale oil was disappearing from the market; the new substance was soon widely demanded by the trade; fabulous results followed his efforts."

There is no reference to rebates in the sketch. The biographer speaks glowingly of Rockefeller's benefactions.

PLASHES FROM THE WIRES

M. J. H. Scholborgh, the Venezuelan consul at London, died at Paris yesterday from the effects of the heat.

Though it was predicted at St. Petersburg that there would be some disorders in St. Petersburg yesterday the day was as uneventful as Saturday, which was observed as a memorial day for those killed January 22 last. Agitators in Nishni, Vitebsk, Ourmi and several other towns arranged demonstrations and tried to precipitate collisions with the police and troops, but there was no loss of life and no serious affrays.

The steamer Lyria, which arrived at Victoria B. C, from Nome and St. Michaels, last night, brought news that several thousand dollars' damage was caused at Fairbanks, July 11, as a result of the overflow of the Tanana River.

A Norfolk, Va., dispatch says no confirmation nor denial of the report that former Chief Engineer Wallace of the Panama Canal Commission is to be made president of the Seaboard Air Line, can be secured there.

Suicide at Alviso.

SAN JOSE, July 23.—Joseph Villas, once a wealthy merchant, but recently an inmate of the County Almshouse, committed suicide Saturday afternoon by jumping into the slough at Alviso.

OAKLAND, July 23.—Despondent over blindness and other physical infirmities, Emil F. Rosenthal, 47 years of age, committed suicide this morning at the State Home for Adult Blind by cutting his throat and wrists with a razor.

CHINESE RECOGNIZE AMERICAN CONTRACTS.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

SHANGHAI, July 23.—[By Asiatic Cable.] In carrying out the boycott by the Chinese of American goods, which was arranged for at a mass meeting here July 20, an exception will be made in the case of American dealers who have not yet received supplies of new goods. They will be allowed to sell their existing stocks, but in the future, contracts with them are forbidden by the leaders of the boycott movement.

It is announced also that Chinese pupils will be allowed to continue in attendance at American schools.

LIVED YEARS IN TWO ROOMS.

DEATH CLAIMS ANOTHER LOS ANGELES PIONEER.

Charles H. Bush, for Thirty-five Years in the Jewelry Business on North Main, Passes Away After Brief Illness—Had Amassed Large Fortune.

After living in two roooms for twenty-two years, Charles H. Bush, one of the pioneers of Los Angeles county, died Saturday worth about $250,000. Mr. Bush had been ill for thirteen days, having been taken to the California Hospital July 8. He died of uraemic poisoning, aged 70 years.

For thirty-five years Mr. Bush had been one of the most unique characters among the pioneers of the city. Well known to most of the prominent men of the city, with many friends, he preferred to live alone in his two rooms at No. 318 North Main street. There he had his jeweler's store, and lived in the room over the store. He had followed the trade of a jeweler and watchmaker for fifty-three years.

He came here in 1870, at the age of 35. For thirteen years he had his store in the Downey building, the only other place in town he has lived in besides the little store at No. 318 North Main street. His cousin, Dr. C. W. Bush, who died last month, was also one of the well-known pioneers of the city.

Mr. Bush's life had evidently been embittered early in his career. He was brought up in Sidney, O., and married when about 30 years of age. He was divorced from his wife, but few of his friends know the reason for their quarrel. For this reason he came here, and chose to live alone. He never went to church, and was wont to get very bitter at the very mention of religion. His brother, A. L. Bush of Escondido, has only seen him four times in the last few years, each occasion being when some death in the family caused a reunion in the city.

Mr. Bush owned property on Los Angeles street and Seventh street. No will has been found nor any safe deposit vault. The dead man was known as a shrewd business man, the fact that he stuck to one trade for fifty-three years shows how steady was his character. He lived a quiet life, taking his meals at restaurants and keeping regular hours.

The deceased has a sister, Mrs. Tullis, who lives at Clearwater, and two nieces, Mrs. Charles Russell of No. 1235 East Eighth street and Mrs. Charles Goodwin of No. 4039 Woodlawn avenue.

The funeral will be conducted by the Society of Pioneers of Los Angeles County Tuesday morning from the funeral parlors of Sutch & Co. on Figueroa street.

An Astonished Queen.

The Queen of Denmark once paid a visit to the Danish colony of Iceland, where the good old bishop exerted himself to the utmost to show her everything that was worth seeing. The Queen paid many compliments to her host, and, having learned that he was a family man, graciously inquired how many children he had. It happened that the Danish word for "children" is almost identical in sound with the Icelandic word for "sheep," so the worthy bishop—whose knowledge of Danish was not so complete as it might have been—understood Her Majesty to ask how many sheep he owned, and promptly answered: "Two hundred." "Two hundred children!" cried the Queen astonished. "How can you possibly maintain such a number?" "Easily enough, please Your Majesty," replied the prelate with a cheerful smile. "In the summer I turn them out upon the hills to grass and when winter comes I kill and eat them.—[Tit-Bits.

"Dependable Furniture at a Cash Price"

Reductions ON Chiffoniers all this week

All this week we will offer a reduction of from 20 to 30 per cent on a large line of odd chiffoniers. As we are often compelled to break bedroom suits and sell single pieces we have accumulated a large line, which we place on special sale this week. The assortment includes almost every kind and style made, from the most inexpensive at $3.00 or $4.00 up to the very finest at $100.00.

Save 20 to 30 Per Cent By Buying Now

It is seldom that we make a reduction on any of our furniture, as we always price our goods as low as is consistent with good quality. Strictly first-class furniture cannot be sold for less than we ask. Only on such occasions as this can we ever offer a special inducement, when we do so the price is cut as much as we possibly can. A reduction of 20 or 30 per cent. should make it worth your while to visit our store to secure one of these chiffoniers. As there are only a few of them, and as they are nearly every one different, it is impossible to describe them. They are in oak finish, plain oak, golden oak, quartered oak, birdseye maple, mahogany finish and solid mahogany.

... stranger liked the horse so well ... has not yet brought him back, neither has he returned to discuss terms of purchase with Richards, who now wants his horse, and the stranger jailed.

Richards says he was hanging over his fence Saturday morning watching his horse sport about the yard, when an attractive-looking fellow came up and said he would like to buy the horse if his gait was suited for a good saddle horse.

The owner assured the stranger that he was the finest saddle horse in town, and insisted on his trying him a turn about the block. The stranger acquiesced, and horse and rider are still going, for all that Richards knows.

TRIES IT AGAIN.

Once Famous "Spanish Beauty" Makes Another Attempt at Suicide but Fails.

Mrs. Robert Burke of No. 518 Banning street, known as the "Spanish Beauty," made another unsuccessful attempt at suicide last night. Many times in the past few years the woman has essayed to end her existence by the poison route, but each time her plans miscarried.

While walking along Wilmington street early last evening with her husband, Mrs. Burke suddenly drew out a box of morphine and swallowed the contents before she could be restrained. Then she ran into a Japanese lodging-house near by and fought to prevent the police from sending her to the Receiving Hospital. The surgeons at the hospital quickly relieved her of the poison.

THIS BURGLAR WORKS SYSTEM.

GETS EMPLOYMENT AS GARDENER THEN ROBS HOUSE.

Has Confessed to Two Jobs and Is Believed to be Guilty of Others. Assumed Role of Demented Man but Was Brainy Enough While Looting Houses.

Under the guise of a gardener, taking jobs to trim private lawns, Carl Johnson has been able successfully to play the burglar in at least two known instances, and the police are of the opinion that he has done more jobs than the two to which he has confessed, during his four years' residence in Los Angeles.

It was in the role of an apparently silly gardener of poor mental balance that Johnson secured a job Saturday cutting the lawn of L. Fry, 887 Boston street.

Johnson got a dollar for the job, but he came back that night in his part as burglar and got away with $100 worth of clothing, belonging to Mr. Fry, using his knowledge of the house acquired during his afternoon's work, and the absence of the family.

The lawn cutter burglar buried the greater part of the stolen clothing, wrapped in a piece of canvas, in a vacant lot, but when he was arrested yesterday by Detectives Steel and Craig, he was wearing one of the stolen coats, and under pressure took the officers to his clothes-cache, where all the garments were recovered.

Johnson also confessed to the burglary of the E. W. Lusk residence, 415 North Grand avenue, on the night of the 15th, when he got away with $70 worth of jewelry.

FLEECED HIS COUNTRYMEN.

Greek Who Embezzled Savings of His Fellow Workmen Caught by Visiting Officer.

Harris Kockos, a suave Greek with a knowledge of the English language, was arrested at First and Main streets yesterday by Deputy Sheriff Smithson of San Bernardino on a charge of embezzlement.

Kockos was employed at a grading camp of Greeks near San Bernardino and because of his knowledge of English he was made treasurer of the savings of a number of the men. A week ago he suddenly disappeared with about $400 belonging to his countrymen. Yesterday the San Bernardino officer came to Los Angeles to look for Kockos and while en route to the Police Station he met the missing man on the street and placed him under arrest. Kockos will be taken back to San Bernardino today.

With Club and Gun.

Lucio Valdez, a Mexican, ran afoul of a bad lot in a saloon at West Anne and Wyse streets early yesterday morning and he went down and out with a broken head and a bullet in his hand. The bullet was extracted and the head was bandaged by the surgeons in the Receiving Hospital. Valdez could not give a clear account of how the trouble started.

SPOOKS GAVE NO MESSAGE.

Patron Insisted on Getting What Was Advertised.

Last Sunday at Annual Camp of Spiritualists.

With sixteen pages of typewritten manuscript held in his hand, and his voice monotonously rising and falling as he extolled his own exploits in the psychic world, Charles Wood of Boston stood in the center of the stage at the Mineral Park Pavilion, yesterday evening, and pretended to conduct a "circle."

"I came in here to get messages—I didn't come here to listen to any old dry lecture!" cried out a tall, vigorous-looking man in the audience.

Instantly there was confusion. Wood began to stammer and to wipe the perspiration from his shiny, bald head—but he laid down the manuscript, which was a mighty relief to his audience.

"I didn't advertise to give messages," declared Wood, feebly smiling at the man who interrupted him.

"Well, it was advertised that messages would be given here at this meeting, and that's what I came for," declared the man.

Here the chairman of the "circle," Mrs. Armstrong, interposed: "We never announced such a thing, and the gentleman is at liberty to retire if he doesn't like the proceedings."

"Your programme shows that it is so printed," declared another man, and again there was confusion through the audience."

"Well, we have the right to change our programme sometimes, if we want," declared Mrs. Armstrong; and then Wood, with a happy thought, struck in: "I'll pay the gentleman back his money—out of my own pocket, and he may retire." But the gentleman wouldn't retire. He had come for "messages," and he was bound to get them.

"Well, I can't give messages," at last cried out Wood in exasperation. "I never gave messages and don't pretend to. I cast horoscopes."

Then Wood began a most inane performance in which he took the names and places of birth of people in the circle, and passed out to them generalities such as any schoolboy could have done at a "class prophecy" with more spirit, and surely as much chance of striking the truth.

People got up and walked out by the dozens; they dwindled away until the Boston man, wiping his bald head to keep off the sweat starting from every pore, declared, "Well, I could keep this up all day, but—ah, it's pretty warm, and so I'll bid you good night."

And he was gone with a bulging pocket full of dimes collected from his foolish dupes.

The good old-fashioned Methodists—whose reputation for taking a collection on every possible occasion is a matter of record—are dead ones compared to the Spiritualists.

Yesterday was the last Sunday of the month's camp meeting at Mineral Park, and it attracted a good-sized crowd. At the head of the hill, as you started down the winding path to the Arroyo Seco, a table barred the way, and a dime was necessary to open the gate.

Farther down the path a spooky woman was holding out her hand for money to help meet expenses—just what, the Lord and the lady only know. Then there were rows of tents and little bungalows which housed the "World's Psychic," the Paris "Card Revelator," and "Spirit Photographer," the "Trance Mediums" of high and low degree; and finally you got yourself as far along as the shambling old pavilion, where the main meetings are held. There, if you happened to strike it right, you got free admission; but sometimes it cost a two-bit piece to gain admission.

Then there was a collection for the expenses of the camp meeting. Then there was a selling of pictures of the speakers. Then there was an appeal for funds to help a brother and sister who had been for thirty years in the mediumistic work. Then there was a call for 10 cents apiece to "sit in" on a circle, which afterward turned out to be the baldest kind of a fake—such a raw piece of work that the ardent spiritualists themselves got up and walked out disgusted.

It was pitiful, too, when you looked over the assemblage and saw the many gray heads and bent frames, and saw the dull eyes brighten up in the hope that they might hear a message from their loved ones gone over to the other side.

But everywhere the commercialism of the affair was apparent—disgustingly apparent. Maude Lord Drake, who was exposed in the columns of The Times last week, was one of the prominent characters on the grounds.

She talked freely of the sad manner in which her feelings had been ruffled by the reports.

One sympathizing lady came up to her and expressed her sorrow. Said she: "I was sorry I couldn't have been there. I know those things they said about you were not true.

With an eye to business Madame Drake quickly turned to her sympathizer and declared: "Well, I'll just give you a circle at your own house. Now, see here, I want $15 for myself—$1 a head, you know. Now, you can invite in several others, and there will be the extra money for yourself."

A funny incident is said to have taken place in one of the seances in a dark, ghostlike tent last evening. The voice of a man came forth from the cabinet. It declared that the man had died while speaking to the public from a platform erected at Springfield, Ill., the platform having collapsed and causing his death, on a certain date.

"Well, by gum, that's so," yelled out an excited Illinois man in the circle. "That's the date that Johnson was hanged there for wife murder. I remember he made a speech on the scaffold, and they pulled the lever while he was talking." This conclusive proof broke up the seance.

SLUGGED FOR A DIME.

Customer in East First Street Joint Almost Killed by Crowd of Hangers-on.

The prompt arrival of Detective Paul Flammer and another officer upon the scene of a desperate fight prevented possibly a murder on East First street Saturday evening. Flammer espied what he thought was a street fight, and as he ran toward the struggling men he saw that one man was down and several other men were striking and kicking him, one of his assailants, who later gave the name of John West, using a "black-jack" of murderous proportions.

The fight had started in the notorious Icemen's Resort saloon at First and North San Pedro streets. William O'Mahley of No. 901 East Fifth street, having refused to pay for a drink which he did not order. He was set upon by the barkeeper, who prominently wore a union badge, and by several other hangers-on. O'Mahley escaped to the street, but the gang pursued him, knocked him down and dragged him into the place again. There they had him on the floor and were beating the life out of him when Flammer interfered, arrested West on a charge of assault with a deadly weapon and took O'Mahley to the Receiving Hospital. The victim's nose was broken, his eye closed and his head covered with cuts and bruises. The saloon has a bad reputation in police circles.

THROWN OFF A FLYING TRAIN.

TERRIBLE FALL OF A YOUTHFUL NEWS AGENT.

Herbert Green the Victim of an Accident Which May Cause His Death. Was Taking His First Trip and Plunged Off While Passing Between Coaches.

On his initial trip in the capacity of a newsboy Herbert Green, the eleven-year-old son of J. S. Green, wholesale liquor dealer of No. 271 South Main street, fell from the Crafton and Los Angeles train of the Southern Pacific near Irwindale at 9 o'clock yesterday morning and sustained injuries that may cause his death.

The little fellow, who is a nephew of Robert Green of the Dennison News Company, is full of ambition, and he persuaded his parents much against their will to allow him to act as a substitute for the regular boy on the train.

No one saw the boy, but the train crew missed him at Irwindale, and a searching party, composed of C. D. Leech and Matthew Matney, ranchers, went back and found the boy lying alongside the track about a mile down the line. He had fallen on his head and was unconscious. He was taken to the Irwindale depot, where Dr. J. D. Reed, the railroad surgeon at Covina, attended him. Yesterday afternoon the boy was brought to this city and sent to the Pacific Hospital. He is suffering from concussion of the brain.

Pen Points

If Russia should become a republic, those other thrones in Europe couldn't be sold for old junk.

It must make Joe Chamberlain sore to find himself nothing but a rank outsider during all these stirring days in "Merry England."

Even if the Irish and the Liberals did succeed in putting Premier Balfour over a barrel, let it be remembered that it took the two of them to do it.

Chicago was always a wide-open town, but, anomalous though it may seem, it will be a far decenter place now that it is also to have the "open shop."

If Komura and Witte have their way and bring Russia and Japan together it will be worth while to take a trip over to England just to hear the things that will there then be said.

If the prospect of an alliance both offensive and defensive between Russia and Japan gives China the shivers, what effect would you think it would have on England. Good 'eavens!

It now appears also that even the Sultan of Turkey has nerve as good as the best of them. By ginger, some of those big fellows in the high places are thoroughbreds, too. Let us give a king as well as the devil his due.

The New York Times favors the erection of monuments to actors. A great many actors could have monuments built from the shells of the eggs that were thrown at them, if they had taken the pains to save them.

If the Bennington disaster shall result in the prevention of further accidents from antiquated, leaky or defective boilers, then the brave sailormen who perished on that ill-fated ship will not have died in vain.

It now crops out, also, that the publishers of "Fads and Fancies" agreed to deliver subscribers their copies bound in "the rarest and most valuable skin obtainable." So, you see, the thing was a skin game from the start.

A certain Dr. Wardle recently argued in a medical magazine that the Japanese have negro blood in their veins. The doctor gives his magazine article the title of "Evanescent Congenital Pigmentation in the Sacra-Lumbar Region." If you can stagger through what that means the rest of the dope will be easy to swallow.

Bolivia is building a railroad 3000 miles long that will cost nearly $53,000,000 in gold. Keep your eye on that great country, and on all the other republics of South America. They're going ahead with things. They've quit the fighting business and are sunk in peace and prosperity up to their necks.

Then there's Argentina—another fair sister of the South. This year she'll have 128,000,000 bushels of wheat, her treasury is bursting with gold, her population is increasing rapidly and she is buying 100 per cent. more goods from Uncle Sam now than she did two years ago. Vive Argentina!

From all that can be judged at this distance, Gen. Linevitch is now in a position to make one of the most masterly retreats ever known in history, or to jump in and win a victory that would throw every other victory that was ever won completely in the shade. There is still one more alternative left him, which is to suffer a defeat in which all shall be lost save honor. We are not on the ground to more accurately size up the situation, but if any bloomin' war expert can discount this diagnosis, he's a dandy.

These "persistent rumors" about steamship lines to be established with San Pedro as their home port are nothing short of amusing. What do people suppose? Isn't San Pedro a harbor, and won't it necessarily become one of the greatest and the most important harbors in the world? Then how is it supposed to cut any ice if it doesn't have not only one but many steamship lines? Don't worry, dearly beloved. You'll yet see that sun-kissed port crowded with the ships of every nation, and you won't have to wait an awfully long time, either.

Doubtless the purpose of the Japanese in going up the Amur is to invade Siberia. By going up this river they can deprive the Russians of their means of summer communication, cut off the wheat regions, at harvest time, isolate Vladivostok and render the situation of Gen Linevitch extremely precarious. The movement is of the greatest importance and it is unquestionably a part of the carefully prepared plans made by the Japanese before the war began.

Here's more good news from South America, and it's from Colombia, at that—the quarter from which we might least expect it. This fair but erstwhile rather embittered sister of the South has lately reduced her army from 12,000 to 6000 men, and 4000 of those have been put to work making roads. She is reforming her monetary system with a view to adopting a gold standard. She is building railroads and doing a great many other things that look good to the captains of industry and the advocates of peace. Vive Colombia!

THE TIMES DELIVERED AT THE RESORTS.

Patrons of The Times visiting beach resorts during the coming season may leave order for their paper with any of the agents named below, or at The Times Business Office, Los Angeles. A regular carrier service is maintained at the following points:

Catalina—Catalina Novelty Co., opposite wharf.
Redondo—W. J. Hess, White Front.
Santa Monica—Arthur E. Jackson, 236 3d street, Sunset 'Phone 95.
Hermosa—D. A. Morse, storekeeper.
Huntington—Edward Royle, 103 Main street.
Long Beach—L. A. Schinnerer, 9 Pine avenue, Telephone 95.
Manhattan—J. H. Widener, bathhouse and stand on pier.
Ocean Park—J. W. Woodward, 184 Pier avenue, Enos News Stand.
Terminal Island—Merrit & Real, grocery store.

THE SALTON SEA.

The unusual flood in the Colorado River this season has caused an overflow, the waters of which have reached that interesting depression in Southeastern California known as the Colorado Desert in ordinary seasons, but which in seasons like this becomes transformed into the Salton Sea. At the present time it is a broad, shallow lake, slowly growing larger, but will soon attain its maximum, and will then gradually dry up in consequence of excessive evaporation under those cloudless skies.

The Colorado River has been aptly called the Nile of America. As the Nile takes its rise from the mountains in Central Africa, and is swollen from the rains and melting snows of summer, so the Colorado has its sources in the lofty mountain ranges forming the backbone of the American continent, and the melting snows of May and June fill the river beds to overflowing.

California is a region of anomalies, and here is one of them. It is in the rainless season that our great river overflows its banks and inundates the adjacent country. But the Colorado is like the Nile in another respect. It brings down a vast quantity of silt, the product of erosion in its long journey between 2000 miles of river banks, and spreads it over the lowlands, forming a rich, fertile, inexhaustible soil.

In the Imperial region, southeast of the Salton Sea, canals and ditches have been constructed, deriving their water supply from the river, and it is already noted for its wonderful productiveness. Still further south, below the international boundary line, there is an abundant vegetable growth along the large stock ranges lying between the mountains and the river.

The volume of water flow in the Colorado River varies greatly in different seasons. In July 1902 it averaged about 12,000 cubic feet per second; while in the same month of 1903 it exceeded 30,000 feet per second. It is proposed to regulate and equalize the flow of the river by the construction of government dams at suitable points on tributary streams in the State of Colorado. One of these, located in a canyon where Grand River forces its way through the Gore range of mountains, will form a gigantic reservoir capable of impounding an immense volume of water. This will form a part of the government system of storage reservoirs, and by holding back a portion of the surplus waters in flood seasons, it will be utilized to great advantage by the sections which are being developed along the lowlands of the Colorado River, where, according to officers of the Geological Survey, two million acres will be subject to reclamation.

It is unfortunate, however, that an effort is being made by the North-Western and Pacific Railroad—a projected company—to thwart this great public improvement by monopolizing the canyon for their proposed roadbed. In this respect they are not as broad-gauge as the Southern Pacific officials were when, after securing the right of way through the canyon where the Tonto reservoir was to be built, the Southern Pacific at once yielded to the superior claims of the government, gave up their rights, and built their road around the reservoir.

It should be stated that the present diversion of the Colorado waters into Salton Sea does not entirely result from this summer's flood, but partially from an accident to the intake during the high water last spring. There is a bar in the river just above and opposite the intake, and the main current flowed on the California side of the stream, putting an unusual strain on the works of the intake, but measures are being taken to divert the current to the Arizona side of the bar, where the intake works can be repaired and the flow into Salton Sea be stopped.

Geologically Salton Sea is the bottom of one of the world's notable depressions, being 380 feet below sea level. Portions of the Sahara desert in the western end of that great waste are below the level of the ocean, and a project has been mooted for cutting a channel through the intervening ridge, letting the waters of the Atlantic in, to form a great inland sea. What effect such a large body would have on the climate of the adjacent shores, and even on the countries of Southern Europe has been a subject of considerable speculation.

The greatest body of water below sea level is the Caspian Sea, the surface of which is eighty-three feet lower than that of the Black Sea. And, although large rivers flow into it, including the mighty Volga, it maintains its low level, owing to the rapid evaporation from its great surface of 169,000 square miles. The Dead Sea in Palestine is 700 feet below ocean level, and though receiving the fresh waters of the Jordan, it is the saltest of all seas, its shores being encrusted with salt.

There are a series of low depressions extending north from Salton Sea to Death Valley, a distance of about 300 miles, and these are supposed to have once, in ancient geologic times, formed the bed of a northern extension of the Gulf of California. The silt brought down by the Colorado River was deposited at the head of the present gulf, forming a broad delta and damming off the waters above, thus leaving a great inland sea, which has since dried up and produced the present Southern California desert.

A FIELD FOR PHILANTHROPY.

Surely no better use could be conceived for great wealth than to take the unfortunate people who are crowded in the slums of a big city, and place them where they will have a chance to become independent, respectable and self-respecting—a benefit to the community, instead of a standing menace.

The Salvation Army is doing some work of this kind on a small scale. It is deserving of support on the part of the public, for, whatever we may think in regard to the religious ideas of the army people, they certainly do a good practical work, when it comes to improving the moral and physical condition of men.

The following paragraph, in a recent dispatch from Washington, giving the main points of a conversation with Mr. Haggard, is well worthy of careful consideration:

"Mr. Haggard said it had been practically proved beyond dispute that three generations in the London slums would wipe out a family absolutely. It was the same in New York, or in the slums of any of the great cities. He was of the opinion, he said, that one reason why the Japanese had been so signally successful in their present war with Russia, was that they are absolutely and entirely an agricultural people, with the good habits natural to tillers of the soil."

By the way, why would it not be a good idea for Carnegie and Rockefeller and other multi-millionaires, who are giving vast sums for the establishment of universities and libraries, to devote a portion of their great wealth to the improvement of the condition of the "submerged tenth" in our great cities? This is one of the most sensible plans of benevolence that can be conceived. Many years ago Peabody, the American banker, made a donation of $5,000,000 to establish model tenement houses in London, where he had been engaged in business. The estate has been wisely managed and has paid regularly 5 per cent. on the investment, the income being used to build other houses of the same kind. Another American, D. O. Mills, has done some excellent work of this kind in New York.

Here is a good chance for some of our people who have more money than they know what to do with to make every dollar they expend yield a hundredfold, in blessings to their fellow-men.

Great Saving of Ink.

An English and an American merchant were discussing the relative importance of their businesses.

"Why," said the Englishman, "in my firm the clerks use 30,000 gallons of ink a year!"

"Oh, that's nothing," retorted the American; "we saved that much ink in a year by ordering our clerks not to dot their I's."—[Harper's Weekly.

Mrs. George Keppel of England wears a pendant of emeralds, the most beautiful in the world.

Mr. Kendal, the noted English actor, has a second vocation, inasmuch as he is a successful painter.

The Japanese Emperor draws $3,000,000 yearly from the national treasury for living expenses.

Princess Irene, the wife of Prince Henry of Prussia, enjoys the distinction of having more godfathers than any other woman in the world—namely, 4000.

The present Governors of Kansas, Minnesota and Oklahoma were country editors, as well as the State Auditor of Kansas and the Congressman-at-large.

The late Secretary Hay in conversation with James Dubois of the State Department, less than a year ago, predicted that he would not live twelve months.

Mrs. McMillan, widow of former United States Senator McMillan of Michigan, has a pheasant farm at her summer home near Magnolia, Mass.

Sir William McGregor, Governor of Newfoundland, will make an expedition into Labrador this summer for the object of fixing the longitude of some of the principal points there and making astronomical, botanical and other scientific investigations.

J. Alden Loring of New York has made such a thorough study of birds and beasts that it is said that he knows each by its cry and can answer them in their own language.

The Earl Marshal of England wears the most costly uniform in the world, representing an outlay of $1250, not including jewels or ornaments. There are 12,000 yards of gold lace on the garment.

The library of Theodor Mommsen, the famous German historian, has been purchased by a woman whose name is not revealed, and presented by her to Bonn University. It is like Lord Acton's library, now belonging to Cambridge, a superb historical collection.

Dr. Joseph Spencer Kennard of Tarrytown, N. Y., receives larger royalties from his novels published in Italian than any other author with the exception of Gabrielle D'Annunzio. He is to be knighted by the King of Italy in January.

The Duke of Abruzzi, who is now preparing for an exploring expedition in Central Africa, is undoubtedly the most adventurous prince in Europe. He seems to be perpetually devising new means to gratify his desire for physical and mental exhilaration. He has been shot over a hedge while motoring; he has listened while the ribs of his ship have been squeezed in by the pack ice of Prince Rupert's Island, until the vessel had to be abandoned, by which time his fingers had been frostbitten; he has surveyed the world from the clouds in his balloon, and he has attained to points on the Alps which no other man's foot has been known to tread.

JEALOUS OF US NO LONGER.

EUROPE NOW UNDERSTANDS THE UNITED STATES.

Gen. Porter Says That Our Great Growth Alarms No One—The Expansion of Our Trade a Helpful, Rather Than Injurious Influence. Spirit of Our Achievement Admired.

[Gen. Horace Porter, in Philadelphia Press:] "The change of opinion in Europe regarding this country has been great and very rapid. Before the Spanish War, when we were forging ahead and extending our commerce aggressively, the disposition abroad was to view our purposes with suspicion, if not with alarm. European statesmen were puzzled. When the Spanish War came on the tendency was to look with suspicion on our declaration that our sole purpose in intervening in Cuba had to do with peace and humanity.

"An eminent American divine expressed the situation when he said we told Spain that she must stop beating her daughter on our doorstep. We were not believed in Europe. It is no exaggeration to say that at that time Europe came to the conclusion that we were to be reckoned with as a distinctly belligerent power and that our purpose in going to war was the acquisition of territory and the extension of our rule.

"But our national conduct gradually converted those who believed so ill of us. It was first seen that we paid $20,000,000 in gold for the Philippine territory which we had acquired by conquest. It was seen that we gave the people of the Philippines a just and liberal government. It was also seen that we gave the Island of Cuba back to its own people. That made a deep and favorable impression.

"The active part taken by the United States in the peace conference at The Hague was another evidence of our national policy. Then came the period when the United States, through Mr. Hay's diplomatic notes, initiated the policy of the open door in China, proving that we asked for nothing that we were not willing to grant to other trading nations, and presenting a policy of justice to China. And, if this were not enough, President Roosevelt's services in bringing Russia and Japan together have come as a climax.

A PEACEFUL POWER.

"All Europe has made up its mind today that the United States is to be regarded as a peaceful power, frank in its speech and just in its dealings. The old suspicion of our national motives has disappeared from the minds of statesmen.

"Not only is this country now regarded as a great power by Europeans, but it is much better known than formerly. Before the Spanish War continental newspapers used to print a half dozen lines a day about the United States. Today they are not satisfied with less than half a column of American news. The editors make every effort to get the latest telegrams. Things that happen in America are more interesting in Europe than they used to be. All this has helped greatly to make the character and purposes of the American people better known. And with that knowledge has come appreciation and confidence.

"Even the expansion of our trade is beginning to be understood, not as an injurious influence, but as a helpful one. It is true that in Continental Europe tariff legislation hostile to the United States is being constantly proposed, but very little is done. Somehow or other final action on these proposals is not taken. Broad-minded men in Europe are beginning to see that our increasing wealth and expanding commerce are really helping the trade of the whole world.

"Take France, for instance. She is not so foolish as to regard herself as a serious competitor of the United States in the steel and iron industry. She is an art center, a producer of refined luxuries. When the passage of the Dingley tariff bill alarmed Frenchmen I said to them that they need to have no fear. I pointed out that the greater the wealth acquired by the American people in the development of their natural industries the more money they would have to spend for works of art, 'articles de Paris,' women's dresses and so on. I explained that Americans were a free-spending people and that, as they got rich their money would be apt to burn holes in their pockets. That kind of prosperity would be sure to increase the trade of France. And it turned out to be so. Within two years after the Dingley tariff went into operation the export commerce of France to the United States showed an increase. I believe that European dread of the success of American commerce is disappearing.

ADMIRE AMERICANS.

"In my judgment, the intelligent part of Continental Europe has come to admire the people of America. They admire their spirit of practical achievement. They know that we have great natural resources of this continent, but they are beginning to realize fully that our great wealth and increasing power are due largely to the fact that our whole people work and work all the time and that we are practically a nation without a leisure class. It is well understood that rich and poor, old and young, continue working to the end in the United States, and that there is no rest for an American except in the grave. This spirit of work is greatly admired."

"Is there no apprehension excited by our emergence as a great sea power?"

"No. It is generally recognized by European statesmen that, having the greatest developed seacoast of any nation in the world, with great wealth and commerce exposed all along its length, we need a large navy. I do not believe that the building of our big navy is regarded anywhere as a sign of belligerent spirit. The statesmen of Europe see that we have a small army, that we have no enforced military service and that, with abundant wealth, we are making no preparations for a great army. They know that we usually have a surplus instead of a deficit; that our taxes are light, and that, under such circumstances, military or belligerent powers devote their wealth to an increase of their soldiery. Seeing no sign of that disposition in the United States they look upon the enlargement of our navy as a mere incident of our enormous stretch of seacoast and our growth as a peaceful commercial power. Besides, they have abundant evidence of our peaceful and just purposes in our diplomatic policy."

"How is President Roosevelt regarded in Europe today?"

"He is a figure of surpassing interest to Europeans. I should say that he is the best known and most talked about man in the world. He is generally looked upon as an intensely human, courageous, level-headed man and a devoted friend of the peace of the world. The late Secretary Hay won a high place in the opinion of Europe. His clear mind, his conservatism, his firmness and the admirable clearness with which his mastery of language enabled him to set forth the policies of the United States made a lasting impression upon statesmen in other countries."

A Doctor's Chances.

The doctor of a regiment stationed in India received a letter from his tailor, inclosing a long overdue account, and concluding with a polite inquiry after the debtor's state of health. The sawbones replied thus: "I have received your hypocritical letter, hoping that I am in a good state of health. Hear, then, what your chances of my living long enough to be able to pay your bill are. I attend assiduously every cholera case in the camp and I am making smallpox a special study. I swim every morning in a lake swarming with alligators. At a recent attack on a hill fort, I went with the forlorn hope, and was one of the three who returned unwounded. Tomorrow morning I shall go, unaccompanied and on foot, into the jungle and wait for the man-eating tigress as she returns at dawn to her cave and cubs. If it be she who falls, I shall spend my leave in the fever haunted jungle, following up big game, and if I survive that I shall cool myself after its heat by joining a party to ascend the peak of Dhawalagiri, whose snow slopes and glaciers are as stiff as your prices." The doctor eventually came home in safety, and the tailor's anxiety and his bill were both settled.—[New York Tribune.

At the Churches Yesterday.

Service for the Aged.

OUT at Vincent Methodist Church on Twenty-ninth street, the service yesterday morning was especially designed for old people. The front seats in the body of the church were reserved for these honored guests and the entire service, hymns, scripture selections and sermon, was arranged with especial reference to the aged. Pretty little boutonnieres of carnations and ferns tied to a slip of paper bearing appropriate texts of scripture, were given out to everybody who was sixty years of age, or older. It happened too that Rev. and Mrs. H. B. Schwartz and family, who have just arrived here on a year's furlough from the mission field in Japan where they have served for twelve years, were in the congregation, and the pastor, Rev. B. C. Cory, referred to the fact in his preliminary remarks.

The old fashioned hymns were sung —"All Hail the Power of Jesus' Name" and "Blest Be the Tie That Binds"—the familiar airs taken up by quavering voices that rose in sweet, old-time melody. The Twenty-third Psalm was read as the responsive scripture lesson and then the pastor drew from it beautiful and comforting thoughts for the pilgrims who have been so long a time in the service of the Master.

"In this Psalm," he said, "David makes the prophecy 'goodness and mercy shall follow me all the days of my life and I shall dwell in the house of the Lord forever.' Daniel Webster said 'I know of no means of judging the future but by the past.' David made this prophecy because he knew goodness and mercy had been with him in the past and David was a man who had tested God's dealings through a long life. You who are before me today have passed through many vicissitudes and changes but nevertheless your lives have been full of goodness and mercy." In looking back we cannot tell which has been best, our laughter or our tears. Which of us can tell which was the better, the toil or the rest, our faith or our fears? Who can tell which was best, our friends or our enemies?

"We learn more from our enemies and through the mws are pressed into closer communion with God and that makes us grow. Who can say whether health was better for us than sickness. We may be better, richer, wiser and holier because on the bed of sickness we had to look up because we could not look any other way. Who can tell whether our realities were not better than our dreams—that it were not better to have poverty than wealth. Adversity crowded us close to God; we could not see His face but we could feel His hand that was leading us 'beside still waters' along the pathway of pain perhaps in the way we ought to go."

After these preliminary remarks the service was turned over to Rev. T. S. Uren as the pastor was compelled to leave in order to go to Pomona to conduct the funeral service of an old friend.

Mr. Uren, who has himself long passed the three score milestone of life, made a very beautiful comparison of the evening of life to the close of a summer day—the soft twilight, which is the pleasantest hour, after the heat and toil are over and rest is at hand.

"The furrows on the face become channels of grace and beauty," he said, "when the aged Christian has God's sweet rest and peace in his heart. The fires of temper and the failings of humanity burn low in the evening time of life, its strife and difficulties fade away and become dim as the eye of faith brightens and its calm serenity makes luminous the future. There is nothing more beautiful or natural than to step from the life here to the life hereafter. You do not need to be very old to have more friends on the other side than on this and as we grow older they become nearer and dearer and more real. For myself I can say that the most glorious thing in life is to grow old and to belong to Christ."

The duet "My Faith Looks up to Thee" sung by Mrs. Bachman, leader of the choir, and Mrs. Walter Bisbee was a feature of the musical part of the service.

Old-fashioned Virtues.

"Some Old-Fashioned Virtues," was the subject of the address by Reynold E. Blight, at The Fellowship service, yesterday. In part, he said:

"I am not one to sing the praises of the olden time to the discredit of the present or the future. The day of the telegraph, the telephone, the mail system, the Pullman car, the daily newspaper, and the steamer is certainly better than the day of stage coach, town crier, and sailing vessel; and the abstemious habits of today are better than the cock-fighting, gambling, duelling, beer-guzzling days of our fathers.

"This is the best age the world has ever seen. We are heirs to all the good the past has had, all the inspiring words, all the holy thoughts, all the heroic achievements, all the upward-looking, the forward-reaching, all the spiritual forces, all the experience, all the truth, all the progress of the past are ours. The past pushes us forward, upward. The light of prophet life and martyr spirit shine upon us. The spiritual impulses that actuated Huss and Savonarola, Knox and Whitfield, pulsate through our time. The accumulated dynamics of human history wait on us. This age is the greatest age the world has seen.

"The times in which we live are better, greater, more significant than the ages that have preceded. There are no crusaders with jangling spurs and crimson cross to ride forth in deeds of daring, but we need knights of the new chivalry, who without pomp or circumstance, will take upon themselves the oath taken by Arthur's pure knights. We can do without the myths and fables of ancient Greece, beautiful though they are, we may have exemplified in our own life the perfect beauty of honesty and holy thoughts.

"But competition is so keen, life so strenuous, there is so much to be done, business cares take up so much of our time that we are liable to forget that there are more important affairs of life than the accumulation of wealth, the maintenance of a business, the winning of social position.

"We need a revival of the old-fashioned virtue—plain, ordinary honesty. Honesty is business, is in the pulpit, in the home, it is insane on the subject of success, but success bought at the expense of honesty is a poor trade.

"The men of this age should cultivate that old-fashioned virtue—sympathy. Modern business methods seem to harden the heart, and crush out the finer sensibilities. If this age is to do its duty and carry on the development of the race it must cultivate the idea of brotherhood. True sympathy is not giving simply your money or your words, or your time, but the unrestrained giving of yourself, your heart's love. Sympathy is the principle that shall redeem mankind. Sympathy will bridge the chasm and the widening between the classes. Sympathy glorifies humanity. Sympathy is a synonym for love, and love faileth."

The Bennington Horror.

An impressive sermon was delivered yesterday at St. Paul's Pro-Cathedral by the Dean, Dr. J. J. Wilkins. The tragic horror of the Bennington disaster Wilkins's text was from the ninety-first chapter of St. Luke: "Neither can they die any more, for they are equal unto the angels, and are the children of God, being the children of the resurrection."

Dr. Wilkins spoke of the horror of the event and the terrible results that have come to the human family. The divine order of death through accident by rail, or sea, and horrors following but the power of God over all. He spoke of the sad scene in San Diego Bay and declared that the people we cherish the lives of these brave heroes the more staggering the blow.

"Yet He is not a God of the dead," said the speaker, "but of the living, and therefore God helps the living and blesses the dead. How is it? Because that God would permit such a thing to occur? My friends, the way of Providence is not our way. The bodily pain and anguish suffered by that sailor, if it comes as a warning to us, is not in vain, again, how can He permit such suffering, such agony at all? The answers to these questions are known only to God. This mystery may have behind it some eternal benevolence; but we know not a God of the dead but of the living.

"God is as just beyond the grave as He is here. If you are not afraid of Him here, why should you be afraid of Him when you meet Him? Sin is all we have to fear. The plan for the world is love and duty will take us safely through.

"To die is as natural as to be born. Had those whom we now mourn died singly, we would not have felt the pang or the grip of the destroyer which has come in the form of a calamity; yet both are parts of the divine plan of God. His love and power will raise our loved ones and us triumph over all the fears that we laugh at death."

The Footwear Center

When people drop into town from any place on this southwest coast or from Arizona or New Mexico, they follow the road to Staub's for their new pair of shoes.

Staub's is the footwear center of the southwest and those who can't come to Staub's send their orders by mail.

The new styles are first shown at Staub's, and the swellest ones are exclusive with him.

The above illustrates a champagne oxford for women. These oxfords have champagne kid vamps, boozie kid uppers and quarters, 2-inch LXV. heel, silk worked eyelets, wide ribbon lacings. A fine hand made shoe —$6.00.

DEFAMATORY PASTERS ON BOTTLES IN RESTAURANTS.

Efforts to Ruin Business of Angelus Theater Has Directly Opposite Effect—Offending Laborites Forced to Leave One Place by Indignant Proprietor.

Defamatory boycotting posters pasted on catsup bottles, salt shakers and mustard castors and directed at the Angelus Theater, was the flaunt of labor-unionism in the face of decency yesterday. In an attempt to belittle the Angelus Theater, however, the maudlin hirelings of the wary Central Labor Council nearly overdid themselves, for in trying to pursue their avocation in one restaurant, they were discovered by an indignant proprietor and ordered from the establishment, while their scurrilous papers were torn off and thrown in convenient spittoons.

It's an old story now, this fight of the demagogues on a playhouse that will not be dictated to by them.

The laborites at first attempted to intimidate Manager Johnson, then they tried to bulldoze his employes; at last they commanded them—and now, finding that their behests are obeyed not at all, they are seeking to wreak damage by blackmail.

As told in the Sunday Times, the first of these papers was put up a day or two ago, along dead walls and the streets. The work was done at night, as it is in open defiance of law. The legend is simply "Unfair! The Angelus Theater is unfair to organized labor."

This is a deliberate attempt, by untoward means, to injure the business of another, and the perpetrators of this circular-posting if detected will be dealt with in summary fashion. As for F. W. Johnson, the lessee and manager, he is worried less than his friends. Said he yesterday afternoon:

"Business has been better since the circulars went up, although naturally small on account of the usual summer dullness. My position I maintain more firmly every day; if I can't conduct my business as I wish to, without interfering with any individual or organization, or being dictated to by any individual or organization, then I want to get out.

"My people have been called out, but they refuse to go, and a significant fact is that no molestations have been made of my patrons. I won't stand for that. They can have all the childish fun they want as long as they don't interfere with my direct business or the people who come her

Everything that's seasonable, at prices most reasonable,
Is always found within the portals of our store;
While competitors are resting—lack of interest manifesting—
Summer weather finds us busier than before.

Shirtwaist Suits and Costumes $18.50

Suits that are in the height of favor—at a price below what others pay for them to sell again. We don't propose to carry over a single summer suit—hence the sacrifice.

You may choose from black, white, navy, light blue, brown, onion, myrtle green, reseda, grays, fancy plaids, checks, stripes, etc., in chiffon taffeta, pongee, rajah, crepe de chine and Japanese silks—every popular style, many with fancy net waists at $18.50, though no suit in the lot has been priced below $25, and from that to $45.

Drapery Department

Third Floor—Broadway Front

When the selling of draperies assumes the broad proportions that it does with us, efforts to keep the stock free from little bothersome lots that have otherwise a tendency to accumulate rapidly, must be unremitting. Such a clean sweep occurs today.

Some hundred odd Bobbinet curtains and bed sets at HALF price.

500 pairs of Nottingham lace curtains, from 35c to $1.75 a pair.

Embroidered Bobbinet sash curtain stuffs, worth 50c to $1, at 25c a yard.

English cretonnes, both sides alike, 35c and 50c grades, 36 to 45 inches wide, to close out, 20c a yard.

Odd Portieres and Couch Covers greatly reduced.

Silks Reduced

Values Are Quite Unusual

19-inch colored crisp taffeta, in all the evening shades, and cream, ivory and black, well worth 75c, at 60c a yard.

All silk crepe de chine, 23 inches wide, in nile, pink, navy, tan, helio, and rose—75c quality, at 50c a yard.

Deep black, soft finish taffeta for costumes or drop skirts; $1.50 grade at $1.25. Yard wide.

50c a Yard

For Regular $1.25 Ribbons

A bargain worthy the name; on Monday only the 8-inch, all silk Dresden taffeta ribbons, now on display in an entrance window, will be sold at FIFTY CENTS—they come in white grounds with colored floral designs, especially suitable for girdles, hat ribbons and opera bags. Actual $1.25 value.

15c a Yard

Seasonable Wash Stuffs—Worth Up to 75c

On Saturday we promised a wash goods sensation, and here it is:

Can't spare much space for details, but we wouldn't jeopardize our deserved reputation for carrying only the best, by offering you anything else.

Price-cuts are to make business lively before inventory:

Mercerized grenadines, with a sheen like silk—fancy stripes, with Persian figures; also in plain black.....15c
American and French organdies, in white and colored grounds—this season's patterns, of course.....15c
Every piece of Irish dimity in the stock.....15c
Embroidered batiste—white and colored grounds.....15c
Light and dark chiffon Etamine.....15c
Imported printed net.....15c
Mercerized Mohairs.....15c

Former prices on the above have been 25c, 35c, 50c and 75c a yard. Come early and buy liberally, for a sale of such magnitude isn't going to be repeated in a hurry.

Last Week of the Midsummer Blanket Sale

Six more days of reduced prices—and then you'll have to pay full value for these fine white wool blankets that are being offered this week at 20 to 30 per cent. less than regular.

Lots of people are laying in a supply for next winter—and thereby saving considerable money.

FOR SALE— Country Property.

FOR SALE—BARGAIN! BARGAIN!

ONLY $135 per acre for 22½ acres of the very finest kind of soil, located 2½ miles north of Hollywood and within 9¼ miles of the center of Los Angeles; 6-room California house on the property. We have just sold the land immediately adjoining, and one-half of it will be planted to walnuts this coming season. The soil cannot be surpassed for growing walnuts, alfalfa, berries or vegetables of any kind, and we will put it against any ranch property to be bought in Los Angeles county at from $250 to $300 per acre. It can be planted to walnuts or alfalfa at little expense, and will be worth double its cost within six months after planting. Will grow 12 tons of alfalfa or 150 sacks of Irish potatoes per acre per year. The new electric road now building to Burbank will increase its value very much within the next few months. This is without question one of the best ranch bargains on the market.

was drawn up, at "attention,"
three Bennington survivors,
sun-browned, sinewy hands, with now a muttered "bring her aft matey" and now a murmured "steady." Then each by each, and four by four the coffins were carried by sailor lads down the road that has no turning, and ranged side by side in two ever extending parallel rows, on the sunken, earthen floor.

When they had finished, forty-seven plain brown coffins reposed evenly in the bottom of the trench. On the lid of each a square of card-board, firmly tacked, bore the name of its silent occupant. Beneath the lid of each a hermetically-sealed glass bottle contained for future identification the same.

Forth from the group of uniformed officers stepped the rector of St. Paul's Episcopal Church, the Rev. J. A. M. Ritchey, in his long surplice of white with purple shoulder cape, and without further pause, the reading of the Episcopal burial service began. With the recitation of its world-old

Three sharp, successive rattles of musketry echoed across the sunlit hills, and over the sleeping bay, far, far below.

Then an army of spade-men began shoveling in the clods.

NOT A DEATH YESTERDAY.

BUT FEARED THREE COULD NOT SURVIVE THE NIGHT.

Several Advanced Patients to be Moved Today from Hospitals to the Army Barracks—Seven at Agnew Sanitarium Able to Sit up for Short Time.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN DIEGO, July 23.—[Exclusive Dispatch.]. Up to 10 o'clock tonight there had been no deaths of Bennington men have been under treatment at the Agnew Sanitarium. Twenty received temporary treatment, while fifty-seven remained for permanent treatment. Twenty-eight of these patients are in the sanitarium tonight.

"Seven of the boys were able to sit up a short time today," said Manager Pharer tonight, "and to partake of solid food. For the comfort of those sufferers sufficiently advanced in their convalescence, we have placed them in wards where they can enjoy each other's company. We have also isolated the more serious cases and have assigned a trained nurse for the care of each. Dr. Smith of San Francisco, the physician in charge, was here all of the afternoon making a careful investigation of the condition of each patient. He has arranged to transfer several of the advanced patients to the U. S. barracks. They will be moved tomorrow. It is no longer necessary to retain the services of women other than trained nurses, as we now have all the trained nurses we need."

There were no fatalities during the day among the Bennington's wounded, either at St. Joseph's Sanitarium or the U. S. barracks, although at the latter two or three of the wounded are seriously ill.

Surgeon Smith this evening confirmed the report of the removal of patients to the barracks. "Our plan is to make a temporary hospital at the barracks," said the surgeon. Three naval surgeons have been assigned to duty here, Dr. Means, Dr. McCullough, and Dr. Kindleberger. They will assist me in looking after the Bennington's wounded. Seven patients will be removed to the barracks from the Agnew Sanitarium and from the St. Joseph's Hospital. It is needless to say that we are doing everything possible for the sufferers. We have eleven patients at the barracks."

LOCAL MEMORIAL.

MONUMENT BY SAN DIEGO.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

SAN DIEGO, July 23.—While the government will place headstones over the graves of the Bennington victims buried at Fort Rosecrans, the people of San Diego purpose to give them a memorial in a more conspicuous locality. The plan is to erect a handsome monument, suitably inscribed, in the city park. The naval reserves have started a subscription in that behalf, and already a considerable sum has been pledged. It is not doubted that ample funds will promptly be raised to carry out the patriotic undertaking in a fitting manner.

WOODS TO REPORT.

GOES TO EXAMINE WRECK.

Lieut. Stanley Woods, United States Lieut. Stanley Woods, U. S. N., was in Los Angeles for a few Diego. He was sent from Mare Island by the commandant to report on the state of the unfortunate gunboat Bennington. Lieut. Woods is attached to the staff at Mare Island and will send back a detailed account. It is not yet known whether the ill-omened warship is damaged beyond repair. At any rate the expenses of the extensive repairs that would be necessary are so great that it is doubtful whether it will be worth while for the Navy Department to undertake the expense. Lieut. Woods will examine the wreck and report.

He was in the city only long enough to transfer from one train to another.

WEAK SPOT, SAYS BLUE.

LIEUTENANT TALKS OF BOILER.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

VALLEJO, July 23.—Lieut. Victor Blue of the gunboat Bennington, who is now at Mare Island hospital, says there was some unknown weak spot in one of the boilers of the vessel, and there was too much pressure on it. Although carrying no warrant machinist, the Bennington had three chief machinists, who all understood the work of engineers, and Ensign Wade also had experience in the same line. Lieut. Blue speaks highly of the personnel and discipline of the crew of the Bennington.

Naval Constructor Evans has received orders to proceed to San Diego from Mare Island, presumably to determine the damage done to the gunboat.

CAN'T BE EXPLAINED, SAYS CAPT. DRAKE.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

SAN DIEGO, July 23.—Capt. F. J. Drake of Mare Island Navy Yard, who was ordered here by the Navy Department immediately after the explosion on the Bennington, consented to make a statement to the Associated Press this evening, the first he has made for publication regarding the catastrophe. He was asked if he had read the opinion of Rear-Admiral Rae, chief engineer of the navy, as telegraphed from Washington, concerning the cause of the explosion.

"Yes," he replied, "I have read it. It is, of course, based upon supposition. I can state there were no high explosives on the Bennington, and therefore the theory of high explosives as the cause is disposed of. The accident was due to the boilers, the exact nature of which has been fully and correctly described by Capt. Young.

"It was one of those unfortunate accidents that may occur any time and for which no satisfactory explanation can be made. Accidents will occur in spite of every precaution that may be taken. Railroads have accidents, yet they neglect no precaution."

"But, captain, is not the explosion of a boiler in a naval vessel a most unusual accident?" was suggested.

"Yes, it is unusual—very unusual indeed," he replied.

"Will you say anything regarding the condition of the boilers—when they were last inspected, and whether any report was made of defects recently?"

"The condition of the boilers of the Bennington is known in the department at Washington. A report was made and is on file in the department regarding their condition and it is not necessary for me or Capt. Young to say anything about that matter."

Capt. Drake said that he believes the Bennington will be floated within a short time, probably within forty-eight hours.

"We are making rapid progress in pumping out the water, using a six-inch centrifugal pump, which has been placed on the lighter alongside," he said. "From what we know at present there is no serious damage to the hull. The water came in through the blow pipes at the bottom, which were broken off when the boilers were displaced. These can be repaired without great difficulty when the water is cleared from below."

Capt. Drake, like Capt. Young, believes the missing—now given at sixteen—were drowned. Their bodies, he believes, will be found in the bay from time to time.

"These missing men," he said, "were undoubtedly blown into the water and were too badly injured to help themselves. I do not think any of the missing have taken advantage of the conditions to desert as has been suggested by some persons."

"Will you be able to float the Bennington without the aid of a repair ship?" was asked.

"That depends," he answered, "upon a great many things. I cannot say until we have pumped out all the water and made a thorough inspection of the ship."

FOUR BODIES OUT OF HOLD.

FIVE ADDED TO THE TOTAL LIST OF DEAD.

Portions of Corpses in Sight of the Rescuers on the Bennington, but Reaching Them Impossible—Most of Officers Remain Aboard Wrecked Death Craft.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN DIEGO, July 23.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Early this morning four 17 missing; total number on board 190. Capt. Drake with surgeons and nurses sent from Mare Island arrived today. He has been given full authority to employ doctors and purchase such medical supplies as may be necessary. Everything is being done to care for the wounded. Arrangements have been made for the burial of the dead with full military honors in the military cemetery at Fort Rosecrans tomorrow. Commanding officer reports that he has requested Protestant and Roman Catholic clergy to read service over the dead. Later and fuller particulars are expected in the morning, which will be transmitted to you by wire.

[Signed]

"CHARLES H. DARLING,
"Acting Secretary."

The President has directed that everything possible be done to alleviate the sufferings of the injured. A general inquiry into the cause of the disaster will be made, but the board which is to make the investigation so far as can be learned here, has not been designated yet.

TRIBUTES TO DEAD, PRAYERS FOR LIVING.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN DIEGO, July 23.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Tributes to the memory of the Bennington's dead and prayers for the relatives and friends were offered from the pulpits of all the city churches today. In anticipation of such reference to the terrible calamity, the churches were filled.

"This catastrophe has unnerved me," said Rev. W. B. Hinson at the First Baptist Church this morning. "I have prepared no sermon and will not try to preach one, but I want to say a few words touching this appalling thing which happened in our midst."

Rev. Hinson based his remarks on three words, "Mother, sympathy, duty," and the importance of being prepared for death were emphasized. Many of the preachers narrated their experiences while visiting the wounded at the hospitals. Several had been present at the deaths of the Bennington's men and in the absence of relatives or friends had given words of consolation.

GIVE FREE HAND TO ADMIRAL.

HE HAS FULL AUTHORITY TO ORDER INVESTIGATION.

May Direct That It be by Board of Officers or by a Court of Inquiry. Capt. Drake Authorized to Employ All the Civilian Physicians Necessary.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

WASHINGTON, July 23.—Officials of the Bureau of Navigation were at the Navy Department throughout today to receive telegrams from San Diego regarding the Bennington disaster. Acting Secretary Darling of the navy came in from his country home and was at the department today. He has sent to the President copies of all telegrams received from the naval officials at San Diego, and a full account of all the department has done.

By direction of the Acting Secretary, Surgeons V. C. B. Means, F. T. Cullough and C. P. Kindleburg of the navy were ordered by the surgeon-general from San Francisco to San Diego.

Rear-Admiral Goodrich, commander-in-chief of the Pacific station, who is expected to reach San Diego Thursday, is clothed by the regulations with full authority to order such an investigation as he may deem necessary, either by a board of officers or by a court of inquiry, which will determine what further action may be necessary. With his flagship, the Chicago, and the Iris at San Diego, he will have a sufficient number of officers from which to appoint an investigating board. It is expected that he will enter into communication with Washington, fully advising the officials here of the steps he may take. In telegrams coming to the department overnight from Capt. Drake, that officer announced that he expected eventually to float the Bennington. He stated also that he ordered a board of investigation to determine the extent of damage done to the hull and machinery. The captain stated, too, that he would need two more watch officers to relieve those who have been on constant duty since the disaster. The department at once ordered Lieuts. Mitchell and Larimer on the receiving ship Independence at Mare Island, to proceed forthwith to San Diego. Capt. Drake says the surviving officers and crew have been doing noble work, and it is shown by his telegrams that the officers have remained aboard, but because the crew's quarters are uninhabitable, it has been necessary to quarter them in the army barracks.

Acting Secretary Darling has given Capt. Drake full authority to employ all civilian physicians necessary, to purchase all medical supplies needed, and to take all measures required to relieve the suffering of the wounded and to care for the dead.

Capt. Drake today reported from San Diego the recovery of the bodies of Frank de Curtoni, oiler, and Dwight Holland, fireman of the second class, from the wreck, and in another telegram he announced that the bodies of C. S. Carter, fireman of the second class and an unidentified sailor had been recovered from the ship's head.

The revised list as given out today makes a total of forty-nine identified dead officially reported to the department, and one unidentified dead. The moment the department is officially advised of the finding of an additional body, a telegram is sent to the nearest relative of the deceased, announcing the death and expressing the sympathy of the department.

The list of dead officially announced today, as compared with the official list of yesterday shows these corrections:

Edward Brewster Ferguson, instead instead of C. J. Geiss; Oscar Frederick Nelson, not C. F.; Michael George Quinn, not N. G.; and Harry Fay Saunders, not A. F. Saunders.

PRESIDENT NOTIFIED.

SECRETARY OF NAVY WIRES.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

OYSTER BAY, July 23.—In response to the Presidents' telegram sent last night, Acting Secretary of the Navy Charles S. Darling has telegraphed an official report of the disaster of the U. S. S. Bennington to President Roosevelt. The telegram follows:

"Accident of the Bennington caused by small leak to boiler, which was about to be repaired when the boiler burst and was forced astern through its bulkhead, coming in contact with a second boiler, which was also forced through its bulkhead, both boilers exploding with two close explosions. There was no noise. Ship filled from stem to stern with scalding steam, soot and ashes. Many men blown overboard, others jumped overboard for air, many of whom were drowned. Survivors comfortably quartered in army barracks. Wounded are scattered about in hospitals, those but slightly wounded in private residences. Latest reports from commanding officer gives 45 dead identified; 11 dead unidentified; 48 wounded, a number of whom will die; bodies were taken from the Bennington's hold, three being identified as M. Conway, D. N. Holland and C. E. Rushing, firemen. The fourth was identified as Stephenson, but as Stephenson's body was at one of the morgues it was evident that a mistake had been made. Tonight it was thought to be the body of Frank de Courtney, an oiler. Another who died since previous lists were sent out is N. F. Frickwilder.

Portions of the bodies had been within sight of rescuers several hours, but it was impossible to extricate them. The bodies were in a decomposed state. The statement that there are more bodies in the hold is mere guesswork. Nobody knows. The four bodies were found in the alleyway between the engine and boiler-rooms.

The Bennington remains in the same condition as when beached, Friday afternoon. In all sections where it is possible to connect with the big pumps the ship is dry. Lighter pumps will be set at work tomorrow, which will result in keeping the vessel entirely free of water.

While the living quarters are not all that could be desired, most of the officers remain on board. Part of them are on all the time. The surviving men are provided with meals at the United States barracks, four blocks distant from the Bennington, where they also pas the nights. Capt. Young passed last night aboard the ship, although the atmosphere was decidedly moist in his cabin. Lieut. Yates, being the executive officer of the ship, remains on board all the time. This afternoon during the funeral, Lieut. Yates and five of the men stood by the ship.

The tug Fortune, which arrived at midnight last night, has been placed at the disposal of Capt. Drake, who supercedes Capt. Young in charge of the wrecked ship. The tug is in charge of Ensign Whitten of the monitor Wyoming, from which he was transferred for this assignment.

Today was spent in getting the water out of the hold, making temporary repairs of leaks, and in further efforts to rescue additional bodies, if any there might be.

MORGUES THRONGED.

PUBLIC REVIEW OF DEAD.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN DIEGO, July 23.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The three morgues of the city were opened this morning at 8 o'clock for the public review of Bennington's dead. For two hours people poured in and out of undertaking establishments, scores making the rounds of three with all the haste possible in the bounds of decency. Many of the faces presented a ghastly appearance, calling forth criticism that a public inspection of remains should have been allowed.

There were few scenes at the morgue from the fact that only in one or two instances were relatives of the dead present. It was the lying in state of nearly a half a hundred unclaimed dead.

Forty-nine bodies were taken to the cemetery, but two were brought back upon telegraphic ordes for shipment which came afterwad.

Ensign Perry's remains have been embalmed and will be shipped to the naval cemetery at Annapolis.

"Bob" Burdette's Weekly Letters.

The Times is publishing each Sunday a letter written by the famous "Bob" while he is on his European tour. Judging by the installments already printed, they promise to be more than interesting, loaded with his old-time humor, and well worth reading.

AT THE CITY'S GATES.

HIGHLAND PARK.

A. F. Shaw, formerly of the department of physical science of Illinois College and a graduate of some of the foremost universities in the United States, has been chosen head of the chemistry and physics department of Occidental College, and will take charge immediately after the opening of school. The chemistry laboratory is to be enlarged by the addition of a new recitation room. The old room is to be used for a balance-room for quantitative chemistry. Apparatus has been ordered to thoroughly equip the physical and chemical departments for advanced work.

This section of the city will soon have all of its principal streets graded and curbed. Avenue 51 east of Occidental College, has been oiled and covered with sand and Avenue 59 has been treated in the same manner. Avenue 60 is now being graded and street work will be done on Avenue 61, from Monte Vista to Aldama streets.

A slight blaze at the home of G. W. Blackburn, No. 6223 Eagle Rock avenue on Saturday morning called out the boys of Engine Company No. 12. The fire was quickly extinguished. The damage amounted to $100. The blaze was started by children at play around the premises while Mr. and Mrs. Blackburn were absent.

M. Ritchey and daughters left on Tuesday for a several weeks' stay at Idyllwild.

T. W. Swanner, Jr., and Miss Edna Mae Crawford, were married on Wednesday evening at the home of the bride's parents in Oxnard, Rev. J. H. Avery of the Methodist Church performed the ceremony. Mr. Swanner is well known in this part of the city. They are at home in a cosy cottage on Avenue 57.

Space is being provided on three sides of Occidental College for lawns and grass will be sown before the opening of school.

SOUTH LOS ANGELES.

Residents of South Los Angeles will present to the City Attorney a petition asking that the necessary steps be taken for the framing of a speed ordinance which will have especial reference to the section of South Main street between West Fortieth street and Slauson avenue, which they declare has been turned into a speedway and has become in consequence a most dangerous highway of travel. The recent accident in which Millionaire Hancock lost his life, has served to bring about the request for such legislation.

Michael Leahy, of Twentieth and Alameda streets, has disposed of his property on that corner and has gone to Ocean Park to reside.

Miss Elizabeth Lindenfeld, of No. 1324 Santee street, entertained Wednesday evening in honor of Miss Shoenstine of San Francisco, who is spending a short time in Los Angeles. The rooms were decorated in the national colors of Holland and streamers of bunting were used effectively. The artistic score cards were decorated with scenes of the Dutch national life and were the work of the hostess. A Dutch supper was served. Those present were: The Misses Ashhurst, M. Schumaker, J. Johnson, M. Stephan, F. Dick, E. Becker, E. Crast, C. Miller, A. Scholl K. Hagen A. Hagen, C. Wagner, E. Hesser, R. E. Hesser, S. H. Rose, M. Kants, L. Buhr, R. Hettieton, M. MacKenhaupt, L. Zimmerman.

Miss Emma W. Becker and Oliver A. Staude were married on Monday evening at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. Becker of No. 208 West Thirtieth street. The wedding was to have taken place about the beginning of August and elaborate preparations were being made. The appointment of young Mr. Staude, who is a trusted employé of the Armour Packing Company in this city, to a responsible position with the same company in San Francisco, made necessary the change of date. Only the immediate relatives and friends of the family were invited. Ferns and cut flowers were used artistically in the decorations. The bride, who is an attractive and popular girl, was gowned in white and carried white carnations. Rev. B. C. Cory, pastor of Vincent Methodist Church, performed the ceremony. Mr. and Mrs. Staude will reside in San Francisco.

THE NORTHWEST.

The street work on Sunset Boulevard is almost completed and the thoroughfare is in first class condition to the city limits. Several residences are in course of construction along the boulevard and others are planned. The question of lights for the intersecting streets will be taken up shortly as several more lights are necessary.

Rev. D. Trias of Sonora, Mexico, has recovered from an operation which he underwent recently at the Sisters' Hospital.

Capt. and Mrs. G. O. Lockwood have returned from an outing at Matlija and other points, and will be at home to their friends at the Los Angeles Military Academy where Capt. Lockwood has charge of the summer school.

PICO HEIGHTS.

Street work along West Pico street beyond Hoover, consisting of the laying of sewers, conduits and gas-pipes, will probably be done during the ensuing months, unless the plans of the citizens of this section fail. An effort is being made to have the work of the several companies interested and also the city work that is still unfinished rushed through at once in order that the surface of the street will not be disturbed after the paving is completed. Paved to the city limits Pico street will be one of the finest driveways in Los Angeles.

On Wednesday evening a social reunion of the members' families and friends of West End Lodge, No. 289, and Silver Leaf Rebekah Lodge, No. 267, was held at Odd Fellows' Hall with several hundred present. After the short programme, stereopticon views were shown by M. Swanson. After the views were shown, dancing was enjoyed and supper was served in the banquet room. The meeting was for the purpose of affording a social evening for the lodge members of Pico Heights, and other functions of a like nature are planned.

Mrs. Fannie Prosser of No. 4200 Wilshire avenue, will leave on Monday for Portland. She will be absent about a month.

Miss Margaret White of No. 1228 Fedora street has gone on a visit to her sister, whose home is at Hemet.

BOYLE HEIGHTS.

The last heavy ironwork of the big steel bridge of Aliso street over the Los Angeles River was put into place during the past week and another important artery into Boyle Heights will be opened within a few days. The bridge is one of the finest in the city, and perhaps in this end of the State. At this particular point the traffic is heavy and the opening of the bridge will relieve the heavy travel on the other streets.

Trustees of the Cornwell-street school are facing the problem of an overcrowded building for the opening of the fall term and provision will be made at once for the erection of temporary shacks until such time as more school room can be provided. At the time the school was built the question of building either a six-room or a twelve-room school building was raised and the decision was in favor of the smaller building. Since that time the neighborhood has increased greatly in population and the need for the larger building is apparent.

THE SOUTHWEST.

An effort is being made to prevent the erection of business blocks on Adams street west of Western avenue, as the desire is to keep West Adams Heights a strictly residential location. The heights will be beautified with shade trees planted along the streets, and electric lights will be provided on the dark corners. The section is growing steadily and several handsome residences will be erected in the near future. The foundation for the residence of Dr. W. W. Becket is laid and work on the superstructure has commenced.

Invitations have been issued by the Stanford University Club of Los Angeles for a dinner to be given Wednesday evening at the Hotel Lankershim in honor of Sherrill B. Osborne, a member of the organization, whose marriage to Miss Lois Narver of this city is to take place August 2. The dinner is to be given by the collegians as a farewell send-off to a member whose work for the university and the local club have won him the friendship and esteem of his associates. Mr. Osborne was the manager of the campaign in Southern California for the exemption of Stanford University from State taxation.

Columbia Circle, Ladies of the G.A.R., enjoyed a basket picnic at Santa Monica Cañon Wednesday afternoon. Sycamore Cottage is the summer home of the hostess, Mrs. J. Davis, who had her cottage beautifully decorated in honor of the Circle. Those present were Dr. and Mrs. R. F. Clark, Mr. and Mrs. William Fellows, Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Peck, Mrs. C. H. Spence, Maud Rolle, Kate Walch, Anna Thompson, Maud Pennebaker, M. Bennett, Elnora Miller, Flora A. Getchell, Kittie Dodson, L. E. Boyd, Mary Bestor, Di Irene Hemb, Catherine Wilson, Louise L. Corson, Jennie Crocker, Mrs. Hattie Wallace, Blanch Davis, Evelin McLain, Irene Pennebaker, Grandma Call (nurse War of the Rebellion,) Mrs. Diana Abbott, mother of Mrs. John Davis, age 86.

Mrs. Elizabeth C. Daly and family have taken a cottage at Ocean Park for the summer.

Miss Julia Cayot of Wellsville, Kan., who has been a guest at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Knipscheer of No. 712 West Eighteenth street, is spending a few weeks with friends at The Palms.

Mrs. Joseph F. Conneally of Phoenix, Ariz., is the guest of Mrs. D. M. Riordan for the summer.

John P. McGonigle of San Bernardino is visiting his brothers, W. R. and E. F. McGonigle.

Miss Georgina Hodge, who is the guest of Mrs. C. B. Nichols of No. 815 Lake street, will leave on Saturday for a visit to Catalina.

Members of Plymouth Congregational Church will give an "Old Folks' Concert" on Friday evening. A musical programme containing songs of the olden time, will be presented, as well as several readings by the young people of the church.

UNIVERSITY.

The Fifth Ward wants a playground for the children, not simply because the other parts of the city are to have an acre devoted to the pleasures of the youngsters, but because the need is great for just such a place. Under the existing conditions the small boy must be him to some vacant lot to expend his surplus energy and the danger of breaking windows and the sorrow of paying for them when broken is a penalty of the sport. The playground would provide a proper gathering place for the clans of youngsters who are without such facilities. This playground would result in benefit to the community in that the boys would be kept off the streets in their leisure hours and would be under the eye of an instructor at all times. The matter is being agitated by some of the foremost citizens of University and the Improvement Association will be asked to take steps toward securing a site.

In honor of Mrs. Carl Gilman of Albuquerque, N. M., Mrs. James Manning of No. 4237 Vermont avenue gave a pleasant surprise on Monday evening, at her home. The parlors were decorated in red and green. Games were played, dancing was enjoyed and refreshments were served.

George W. McKnight and family of Hoover street departed yesterday for a six weeks' stay at the Portland Exposition.

Leo J. Maguire of No. 3105 Figueroa street left on Wednesday evening for Brooklyn, where he will visit his mother. He was accompanied by his two children, Leo. J. and Elizabeth Maguire.

Rev. E. A. Healy of the Methodist Church has returned from Toronto, Can., and on Sunday morning gave an interesting account of the International Sunday-school Convention, which the pastor attended as a delegate. On the homeward journey Rev. Healy spent some time in the Yellowstone National Park.

VERNON.

South Park is being beautified with rare flowers and beautiful plants and the handiwork of the landscape gardener is seen in the artistically arranged beds and the choice selection of plants. The work of planting and growing the lawns, however, is not progressing as well as was expected owing to the peculiar nature of the soil which is not adapted to the growth of bluegrass. Heavier dirt will be mixed with the light soil and the whole will be thoroughly rolled in an effort to provide ample lawns as a setting for the array of flowers.

At the home of the bride's mother, No. 1004 East Forty-seventh street, at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon, Miss Cora Johnson became the bride of Patrick Millane. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Davies and Mrs. Davies played the wedding march. Only the relatives of the couple were present. Mr. and Mrs. Millane will reside in the northern part of the State.

Rev. Peter J. O'Reilly, pastor of St. Patrick's Church, is viewing the sights at the Portland Fair. While in San Francisco Rev. O'Reilly arranged for the holding of a mission during the month of September. There will be preaching during the series of services in German, English and Spanish.

LOOS GET EVEN BREAK.

FIRST AND WIN SECOND OF TWO GAMES.

Tribe Them up in Initial Game and They Give Miller a Trimming in the Last Event—Large Crowd Turns Out and Finds Fault with the Umpire.

Seattle, 4; Los Angeles, 3. First game.

Seattle, 2; Los Angeles, 1. Second game.

Both teams and the Siwashes broke even on the Sabbath yesterday in vain and futile efforts to knock each other's heads off and after all when they called it off from the wings of night, because work in the hot sun didn't seem to agree with any of them any good, for neither team could get up or down in the percentage column. They played a double header in order to make up for lost time, and after the first game, the locals were returned winning the second.

Nine thousand people took advantage of the two games for one admission, and it was a "measly" crowd of rooters that spent a good part of the afternoon in roasting poor Umpire Perrine. They seemed to get a kick out of this, but they evidently had to have something on which to vent their feelings, for the umpire practically nothing with which to do anything and had to stand pat and shut out before their wrath. This was a bitter pill, but it was swallowed because Shields was pitching a pitcher for us, and we usually get the beatings he frequently gives us.

There were no very sensational things pulled off in the game, for the pitching was the feature, and there were few chances for spectacular in the field-ing. Hart went in to pitch the second game and while he did very well, he had no luck for him, and he retired in the seventh and Goodwin took his place, but the Siwashes kept right on making runs just the same.

The second game they commenced on Seattle in the fourth, which Kane opened with a single to left field. He stole to second on Blankenship's out at first, and on Hart's hit to left and Kane threw the ball over Tozer's head to the grand stand. Hart went to third after the catch of Tozer's fly to center. In the meantime Kane had singled to left, went to second on Shields's sacrifice, and scored on Tozer's drive to right, which Tozer found difficulty in handling. It wouldn't hurt Shields to make a run, and in addition to that the umpire didn't help him any with the decisions he gave to Seattle.

SECOND GAME.

The second game, according to previous agreement, was called at 4:30 o'clock, to let the visitors catch trains for the north, at which time the score was 2 to 1 in favor of Seattle. Hart went in to pitch, and was very effective in holding them down inning, when two hits and they got. This was fairly easy, and with base running and his getting the two runs necessary to win opened the second to right field, moved up on Kane's sacrifice and scored on Tozer's center. In the fourth Seattle Ross walked and Tozer and scored on Cravath's hit to the right field.

MINOR BASEBALL.

TUFTS-LYON VICTORIOUS.

The new baseball park at Arcadia was formally dedicated yesterday with a game between the Christopher and the Tufts-Lyon teams which resulted in a victory for Tufts-Lyon team by a score of 13 to 12. It was a hot struggle from start to finish and the ball was pounded all over the field for no less than twenty-nine hits. The thing in the losers category was the hitting of Ferguson and the fielding of Coppick while the winners shone through the batting of Schram and the playing of Bowman. As might be supposed, the pitchers were used very roughly in the game and had to call for help more times than they received it. Quite a good-sized crowd of speciators was present and those that remarked at first that the foul strike rule hurt the hitting, finally made a break for the trees when the game was fairly started.

FINIS COURSING.

SPORT GONE TO THE DOGS.

The new coursing park at Arcadia, which was announced with a greater or less flaring of trumpets some months ago, is now a thing of the past for the park has been turned into a baseball park and will hereafter be used by the Los Angeles Inter-Urban league, which is composed of the Hoegee, Tufts-Lyon, Hamburger and Christopher teams. The park is now in very poor condition for ball games but will be improved at once, the weeds taken out and the ground leveled. Match games will be played there every Sunday between two of the four teams in the league.

PRAISE FOR MAY SUTTON.

NEW YORK PAPER DEVOTES A PAGE TO HER.

Miss Helen Homans, a Former Champion Adds Her Mite of Praise for the Pasadena Girl and States That the Head of the New Champion Has Not Been Turned.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, July 23.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The Herald, in the course of a page eulogism of Miss May Sutton of Pasadena, refers to the financial and other difficulties which with commendable bravery "this typical American girl, though English born," had to face and overcome in going abroad to win glory for herself and her country. Then follows a glowing eulogy by Miss Helen Homans, the society woman and tennis champion, who was defeated by Miss Sutton on her initial tour of last year.

Miss Homans says: "I hardly could say I am personally acquainted with Miss Sutton, though I have played twice against her and have been so ignominiously defeated both times. Those two times are the only times I have met her and naturally we were too busy, or at least, I was kept too busy with Miss Sutton's ball, to get much of a chance for a more personal acquaintance, but that much I do know about her, that she is a splendid girl to lose to. She is a generous victor and does not make one feel the ignominy of one's position, however slily she may have made one's play look. She is nice and perfectly unaffected. Some go so far as to say that she plays very unconsciously, but I don't believe that. She would have to be an angel—something considerably more than human, anyway—not to enjoy the applause and adulation which she so justly earns. I am sure any of the rest of us would have an eye out for the sensation we were making in the grand stand if we could do half the wonders she does. And I will say that few of us could get so much adulation without its turning our heads somewhat, which it does not in the least seem to have done to her."

CRICKET NOW A LOCAL SPORT.

FIRST GAME HERE FOR YEARS PLEASES PLAYERS.

Contest Was a Very Fair One in View of the Lack of Practice of the Men—H. P. Justice Did Best Work Bowling and Bating — Further Games are Planned.

Cricket was formally introduced to Los Angeles yesterday in a practice game at Agricultural Park between two pick-up elevens and from the interest shown in the sport it is believed by the enthusiasts that it will gain a foothold here in public favor. There is little reason why it should not, for it is not unlike baseball or "two old cat," and Americans seem to like a game where something is knocked around, whether it is prize-fighters or baseballs. Only a few of the enthusiasts were out yesterday, for the paraphernalia used in the game has not arrived from San Francisco and professional baseball and the attractions of the cool beaches tended to keep many away. From now on the club members intend to have practice games every Wednesday and Sunday afternoon and later on will develop plans for putting the club on a firm foundation.

The elevens were captained by H. P. Justice and A. W. Bannister and Justice's eleven won by a score of 61 runs to 45.

WANTS TO FLY.

KNABENSHUE ANXIOUS.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, July 23.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Roy Knabenshue, the famous Toledo aeronaut, is here with a challenge to Leo Stevens, who is manipulating the Baldwin airship at Brighton Beach, to fly over New York City for anything from marbles to $5000 a side. Knabenshue has an agent with him and a backer with a big roll.

"I am ready to give New York a sensation it has never had before," said Knabenshue today. "All we want is to determine who is the champion aeronaut and who has the best ship, and we have money to back our challenge."

Capt. Arthur W. Lewis, manager of the Boer War spectacle at Brighton Beach, late tonight accepted Knabenshue's challenge and a match will be speedily arranged to see which of the two dirigible balloons can best sail "under, over and around" the Brooklyn bridge. Stevens calls his airship the California Arrow, and with it he has soared over Manhattan Beach and Brighton on fair days recently.

ROSE THEN FELL.

FIGHTS WITH TRAINER.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CHICAGO, July 23.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Trainer Mike Butler of the Chicago Athletic Association and Ralph Rose, the shot putter, engaged in a knockdown fight yesterday on Marshall Field where the Chicago association athletes, who are to go to the Portland meet, were engaged in training and the Californian is now fearing expulsion from the team. The battle which was according to the Marquis of Kilkenny rules, lasted one round of six minutes and at the close honors were even. It didn't demonstrate that Rose would make a champion pugilist. The trouble arose during the trial of the candidates to represent the Chicago association in hammer throwing. When it came Rose's turn he refused to compete, saying he had made a throw of 162 feet and he did not want to try again. The first thing the other athletes knew the big Californian and his opponent were clinched and rolling upon the ground, trying to pummel each others heads off.

RENO WINS AGAIN.

EASY OAKLAND VICTIMS.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

RENO (Nev.) July 23.—The Reno wheelmen today defeated the Oakland team by a mile in a fifty-mile relay race.

The race was stopped in the second relay on account of rain and when the riders resumed, McKenzie, for Reno, opened a gap which Oakland was unable to close.

FARMERS WIN ON OVERFLOW.

GET DAMAGES FOR FLOODING OF ORANGE COUNTY CELERY.

State Supreme Court Sustains the Decision of the Superior Court in the Case of D. H. Thomas, et al., vs. the Bolsa Land Company—Suit Over Damming the Water.

SANTA ANA, July 23.—Word has been received here of the affirmation by the State Supreme Court of the decision of the Superior Court of this county in the case of D. H. Thomas et al. vs. the Bolsa Land Company, an action tried here in April, 1902.

Thomas and others sued the Bolsa Land Company for damages, alleged to have been sustained by the loss of a celery crop, which was flooded and injured by the backing up of waters from the Bolsa Chica dam.

The court awarded damages of $1429, an amount which the Supreme Court has held to be due the plaintiff.

SANTA ANA LOCALS.

A meeting of real estate dealers was held last night at the offices of the Orange County Realty Company for the organization of a Santa Ana Realty Board to regulate the business locally. Plans were outlined and the initial steps for organization taken.

The apricot drying season is at an end in many of the camps, where two weeks' work was sufficient to care for the entire output. Others will continue work another week, in cases where the crop has been larger or where it has matured more slowly.

Gus Kamrath of Orange and Miss Martha Cotton of Capistrano were married this afternoon at the home of the groom's parents in Orange. Many friends of the couple were present and joined in offering congratulations after the simple marriage ceremony.

Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Brown are being entertained at the home of G. P. Lawrence. The visitors are from Kansas.

Miss Blanche Thompson is home from a three months' visit with relatives in Maine and Chicago.

Prof. W. M. Clayton and family are spending a week at Newport Beach.

Mrs. Eunice Libby and daughter have gone to Portland to view the exposition. They will make the trip by steamer.

Mrs. Claude Smallwood of Berkeley has been visiting with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Stanley.

HALL PLANS OF METHODISTS.

WILL LAY CORNER-STONE SOON AT HUNTINGTON BEACH.

Structure to Cost Seven Thousand Dollars and to be the Permanent Home of the Southern California Conference of That Denomination. May be Made an Open Building.

HUNTINGTON BEACH, July 23.—The plans for the $7000 Methodist Assembly Hall which will be the permanent home of the Southern California conference are practically completed, and in order to lay the corner-stone at the time of the August camp meeting the work of construction will be rushed from its inception.

This building will be located near the center of the town as it is now laid out, only a few blocks from the ocean front and on a slight eminence that will make it a show piece from Wesley Park near by and from all parts of Huntington Beach.

In its lines it will follow the auditorium idea. It will be two stories in height in order to give ventilation for deep galleries that will contain almost as great a seating capacity as the main hall. It will be a wooden structure, but with double rows of windows on all four sides which will make it an open building when desired. The lower part will be channel board and from the gallery height up of shingles.

There is a small tower over the main entrance the steps of which will be built under a pergola of natural wood, and there will be entrances on each side of the building banking the rostrum that is opposite the main entrance. The first floor contains a lecture hall at its farther end, the main auditorium with elevated rostrum, a commodious lobby with ladies parlor and directors room on each side.

Oregon pine will be used for the interior finish, the woodwork of the deep galleries, open beamed ceiling and rostrum offering opportunities for decorative effects. The galleries will extend over the lobby and apartments which cut off space on the first floor and the acoustics are planned to make the seats in this vicinity desirable. The auditorium floor will be inclined to within a few feet of the rostrum.

This building is to be only the main ornament of the grounds of the Methodist conference, which are ten acres in extent, and in whose vicinity hundreds of people of this denomination have bought home sites. There will also be a clubhouse and other buildings which will facilitate the social side of religious gatherings.

BUENA PARK.

MACDONALD RANCH SELLS.

BUENA PARK, July 23.—The Macdonald ranch of 700 acres has been purchased by H. B. Allen of Pasadena. Mr. Allen is planning extensive improvements. The sale was made through A. L. Bennett, who has consummated the sale of the Teazel ranch to Emil F. Fillen.

Rev. O. L. Corbin and family will spend the month of August at Long Beach. The Congregational Church will be closed during that period.

Miss Frieda Kallenberger, a nurse in the Fullerton hospital, is spending a fortnight's vacation with her parents here.

Mr. and Mrs. George Wilcox left Saturday for Portland.

COACHELLA.

WINTER CANTALOUPES.

COACHELLA, July 23.—Lyon Brothers, eastern commission men, are reported to be making an effort to contract with members of the Thermal Cantaloupe Growers' Union to begin at once putting in 100 acres of cantaloupes for a second crop to meet the fall and winter demand. A number of the Thermal farmers are discussing the matter favorably and the new crop of melons may soon be started this season.

Since the price of cantaloupes has gone up, L. M. Lyon has notified his working force at Thermal to remain as long as there are any melons to be marketed at that point.

C. W. Mixture, F. M. Young and J. S. Glenn are among the growers who continue to bring cantaloupes to market at Thermal, and are receiving the benefit of the higher prices.

The weather during the week has been more like fall than midsummer. If the cool breezes come from Salton Sea, the residents are glad that the Colorado River has overflowed and filled the natural sea bed in the desert. The fresh sea breeze is much more endurable than the hot dry winds during July. The water of the Salton Sea is said to be clear and, if anything, more salty than the ocean. Bathing is of the best, with the water at a temperature of 90 deg.

From a few rows of dewberries, Fred N. Johnson this year has shipped and sold at Indio, from one-year-old vines, 900 baskets of fruit, which netted him an average of $1.35 per 15-pound crate. He commenced shipping April 28, his first dewberries having ripened April 22. All these berries were taken from six rows fifty feet long. Mr. Johnson also shipped fourteen seven-pound crates of San Pedro white figs from eight two-year-old trees, which netted him an average of 64 cents per crate. The Black Mission figs bring 5 cents per pound more than the white figs.

HONEY BY CARLOADS.

CORONA, July 23.—T. O. and L. L. Andrews yesterday shipped a carload of extracted honey to Boston, it being their second carload shipment for this season.

Walter Tillson was kicked by a horse Friday and sustained a badly sprained left ankle.

Mrs. Ramon Arcia was arrested Friday by Sheriff Coburn charged with running a blind pig in Rincon. She was released on $200 bail and will have her preliminary trial in Riverside Friday.

Prof. J. C. Ray has gone to San Francisco for an extended stay.

"Hotel Coronado" rates $17.50 and up.

MAN OF NOTE SNUFFS CANDLE.

CAPT. THOMPSON ENDS LIFE IN SANTA BARBARA.

Was a Mariner, Artist and Pioneer, and a Nephew of the Skipper of the Pilgrim Spoken of in Dana's "Two Years Before the Mast"—Cousin of Dixie.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SANTA BARBARA, July 23.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Capt. Frank Thompson, mariner, artist, a pioneer of Santa Barbara and a descendent of one of the families prominent in American history, committed suicide this morning in the city jail by sending a bullet through his brain.

It is believed that the deed was committed in a temporary state of melancholy brought on by old age, and intemperance. He was arrested last night by Officer Charles Hacking and placed in the city jail for drunkenness. He committed the deed while Jailor Niles was at breakfast. He was searched before being placed in the cell and the officers do not know how his revolver was secreted on his person.

Capt. Thompson was one of the prominent rebidents of this city, being 69 years of age. His father was a wealthy mariner of the Pacific fifty years ago and he had spent most of his life on the seas. He made many trips around Cape Hope in charge of ships. He was a first cousin of the late Dixie Thompson and of Mrs. Georgiana Lacy of this city, a brother of the late Gen. Charles Thompson of civil war fame, a second cousin of Rear-Admiral Frank Wildes, and a nephew of Capt. Frank Thompson, spoken of as the captain of the Pilgrim in Dana's "Two Years Before the Mast." He leaves two nephews in the East.

Well educated and a very bright man was Capt. Thompson but he chose a wandering life on the seas in preference to other pursuits for which he was fitted. He was a gifted painter, leaving many valuable paintings of marine life. He was an interesting conversationalist, and was well beloved by those who knew him, although he possessed an impetuous nature. He had just returned from a camping trip on San Miguel Island and was preparing to cross the channel again today. An inquest will be held tomorrow morning.

RIALTO.

ACTIVE WORK FOR TROLLEY.

RIALTO, July 23.—Citizens interested in the project of a trolley line to the county seat had a meeting here Saturday evening and enthusiastically discussed, pro and con, the latest proposition from Seth Hartley. If terms are agreed upon he will give up his trip to Alaska and is to build the road into Rialto within five months. It was unanimously agreed to raise the $5000 called for by Mr. Hartley, and a committee of three, J. C. Boyd, W. P. Martin and Kenneth MacRea, was appointed to plan a system for the assessment of property owners, and to lay the plan before the people of the district Monday evening.

It was also resolved that if Mr. Hartley should decline the tender of the $5000, the opportunity will then be passed on to some other promoter.

SANTA PAULA.

OCCUPIES NEW WAREHOUSE.

SANTA PAULA, July 23.—The Santa Paula Commercial Company has just completed and is now occupying the new $5000 warehouse which replaces the one burned some time ago.

The eighteen-months-old son of Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Jenkins died Friday of concussion of the brain, caused by striking on his head in falling from a window.

Misses May Faull and Grace Riner of Los Angeles, who are staying at the Sulphur Mountain Springs, will visit their schoolmates, Misses Emma Casner and Faith Richardson, on their return.

Santa Paula Aerie, F.O.E., gave a ball in Balcom Hall Thursday evening.

Albert Kauffman will leave in a few days for a visit in Portland and northern cities.

MURPHY SENDS HIS MESSAGE.

Temperance Apostle Talks of Bennington Disaster.

Pays Tribute to Heroism of Uncle Sam's Sailors.

Expects Soon to Resume His Great Life Work.

Francis Murphy is on the high road to recovery and declares he is "starving to see his friends."

With his feet swathed in bandages and propped in an easy chair the apostle of love and good will to all men has a message that rings clearly in spite of his weeks of illness.

"My friends are so good to me," said Mr. Murphy, "that all my wants are supplied. I'm living in Canaan and—listen—I'm getting better."

Mr. and Mrs. Murphy have moved fom their apartments in the Gibson on West Fourth street and are located in a pretty cottage on Roosevelt avenue, later they will occupy their own home.

Mr. Murphy greeted his visitor with a warm handshake yesterday evening and smilingly said: "I am coming downtown in about ten days to meet the people whom I have not had an opportunity of seeing."

None of his enthusiasm has departed from the man who is all sunshine and smiles, and his belief in the future of Los Angeles is fixed. "Everybody that can afford to is coming to our city," he said, "and we will soon have the best municipality in the world."

The awful disaster of the Bennington was the uppermost thought in Mr. Murphy's mind, and after his words of greeting and good cheer he said:

"My heart is bleeding for the mothers of those boys in blue who were laid to rest today in that trainload of plain coffins.

"Our jackies are the bravest lads afloat, but it's tough to die like rats, to be forced to surender to the squalling, hissing steam without a chance to fight back.

"I would like to say comforting words to the other brave fellows writhing in agony in the hospitals. How nobly they answer the final roll call. They are mustered out without a murmur. No grumbling or finding fault, just clear grit right to the last.

"The awful explosion has served to show us what the lads will do when danger threatens. We have seen, as we saw in the Spanish war, the caliber of our men. There is no alloy in the metal of their manhood.

"When I read the account of the disaster and began to understand some of the horror of the scene on the gunboat, my first thought was, God pity those who may be responsible for the accident.

"I don't know whether those in authority in the navy were aware of the condition of the boilers on the Bennington and I will not attempt to fix any blame, but I say that if any one, through neglect, failed to report the exact condition of the vitals of that ship, that such a one should be court-martialed and punished.

"There is a crumb of comfort that may come to the mothers of the dead sailor boys. The brave fellows have not died in vain. This horrible disaster will result in a thorough investigation and no doubt will mean the overhauling of ships that are now unsafe.

"I am glad to see the position of The Times on this matter of the inspection of the boilers. There should be a time limit, and when the big tubes have reached that limit they should be replaced with sound steel.

"There is something for which we can all be thankful. No one except, those who endured the agony of the explosion, will ever know the awful scene enacted between decks of the gutted vessel on Friday morning, and no one will ever be able to describe in detail just what happened. Suffice it to say the men died bravely, with moans suppressed and with shrieks stifled. They suffered with fortitude, and died game.

"Uncle Sam has many more ships and even though the Bennington is a total loss, many other finer vessels will be built to take her place. We can ill afford to lose the men. This splendid young life is precious and must be guarded jealously. We cannot afford to lose our best because of some leaky old boiler that should have been ripped out years ago.

"We are about to experience a great revival of honesty in the United States and these things will adjust themselves. This disgusting system of graft will cease and we will have more money to expend for the safety of those who are serving us so well.

"Roosevelt is all right. He serves the people, and the people have full confidence in his leadership. He is above the graft, above the trusts, and while 'Teddy' is at the helm the grand old ship of State with the starry banner floating in the breeze will never strike a rock. God bless our Roosevelt."

Mr. Murphy is looking forward anxiously to the time when he can enter again into the thick of the fight against rum. He says he loves the saloon keeper and the drunkard and that he only desires to get both "to quit taking the nasty stuff."

SIMPLE FUNERAL.

Services Held Last Evening Over Remains of Hancock, Millionaire Autoist.

Simple funeral services over the remains of M. T. Hancock, the millionaire automobilist, were held at his late residence on Woodlawn avenue last evening at 6 o'clock. Only relatives and close friends of the family were present, and the Episcopal ceremony was conducted by Rev. Frederick Post of Ocean Park. In the robes of his order Rev. Mr. Post made a brief address. The music was as devoid of formality as the rest of the service, Marquis Ellis singing "The Holy City," and one other selection with much feeling. The flowers were few but of exquisite selection, and the widow, clothed in pure white, sat at the head of the casket during the entire ceremony.

The body of Mr. Hancock was held in his home last evening, but this morning at 10:30 o'clock it will be taken to the undertaking parlors of Pierce Brothers, on South Flower street, there to stay until arrangements are completed for the family's return to Louisiana. They expect to leave before the end of the week.

COOKING WITH GAS

You think money rains on a gas company's roof the year round. No; it comes as a mist and goes in a flood for years and years.

On January 1st the Times Building in New York City offered for rent offices at the rate of three dollars per square foot. This is a high rent, even in New York City, but the chances are that it will be easier to rent space in the Times Building at three dollars per square foot than in many buildings at one dollar. Why?

Because the Times Building has every modern invention to make an office building desirable—a perfect location, rapid elevators, lighted on all sides, and other structural advantages which make it one of the most desirable buildings in a city of skyscrapers.

The American business man is willing, and even anxious, to pay for the best when he can get the best, whether it is in office buildings or advertising mediums.

THE LADIES' HOME JOURNAL offers to the manufacturer an advertising service, part of which consists of an accredited welcome every month in a million homes, congenial, and even elevated associations in the advertising columns, and the most absolute insurance that every advertisement in every issue is read by every reader.

Bank Stock for Sale
AT ONLY $5 PER SHARE
Plan to Secure 1000 Stockholders
No One Allowed to Purchase More Than $500 of Stock.
The people of Los Angeles can now buy bank stock at only $5 per share. No one will be allowed to purchase more than $500 of stock. Capital is to be increased to $500,000, making bank of a thousand small stockholders, thereby becoming the people's bank of Los Angeles. The Consolidated Bank of Los Angeles has decided to place its stock with the people, believing that in securing a thousand stockholders it will secure a thousand depositors at the same time. Investors can purchase such stock with absolute safety as to perfect security, and realize a handsome profit therefrom, as has been done by the owners of stock in the various other banks of Los Angeles. This is the only opportunity ever offered the general public to buy stock in a Los Angeles bank at $5 per share. We would rather have 5000 stockholders of $100 as the more stockholders there are each than 1000 of $500 each. We want the greatest number of stockholders, the stronger the bank. All stock fully paid up at Five Dollars per share. Purchasers can buy from 1 to 100 shares at $5 per share, but no one can buy more than $500 of stock. Subscription books just opened. Purchasers can subscribe for 100 shares and pay for the same in weekly payments of Five Dollars, and receive one share of paid-up stock as each $5 payment is made. We want the people to become the stockholders in the people's bank of Los Angeles. Officers: William H. Carlson (Ex-Mayor of the City of San Diego,) President; J. G. Estudillo (Ex-State Treasurer of California,) First Vice-President; F. H. Dixon (Ex-State Harbor Commissioner of California,) Second Vice-President; A. W. Carver, Cashier. ## EXALTS BRAVERY ON BENNINGTON.

PASADENA CLERGYMAN SPEAKS OF NAVAL HEROES.

Tell How Their Acts in Remaining at Their Posts When Death Seemed a Question of Moments Should Be a Lesson to All—Decent Burial for Peculiar Vender.

PASADENA, Office of The Times, No. 24 South Raymond Avenue, July 24.—Rev. William McCormack delivered a sermon on the Bennington naval disaster last evening, at All Saints' Episcopal Church. He took as his text Psalms xvii, 19, "Thy way is in the sea, and Thy path in the great waters, and Thy footsteps are not known." He said:

"Whenever a catastrophe of this kind occurs there will always be people who declare it is a visitation from God for the sins of men. Nothing could be further from the truth; God doesn't work that way. The whole Bible is set against such a mistaken idea. Of course, the question arises: Why did such a thing occur, and what was the motive—what lay behind it all? I cannot see any other than to maintain that law is 'visitation.' I think we have a clear explanation in these immortal words of the Psalms. Thy way is in the sea; Thy path in the great waters, and Thy footsteps are not known.

"How true it is in the life of the world that sometimes things happen for which we can not, but can only revert to the Psalmist for an answer to our questions. This mystery of pain and suffering, sickness and death; we cannot fathom it now, but some day God will unfold to us and lay bare our hearts the key that will unlock all these life-mysteries for us.

"Consider the bravery those men displayed in remaining at their posts in an hour when death seemed but a question of moments, should be a lesson to us all. The Japanese have displayed great bravery in battle; but what of these men of our own kith and kin who met death as calmly as duty in the face of a danger that could not be overcome? Such a display is bravery for emulation. One of the most pleasing events I have heard of was that wherein a man heard the doomed ship was going down to his beloved wife in Washington, thinking of her first in the hour of peril. There is a lesson in this for us to emulate. We see it set forth in our newspapers today in poems and other manifestations of sympathy, until it almost seems as if we were the keynote of our sorrow being; but I don't believe we are more faithfulness and kindness now than ever before. There is need of alarm over the situation."

A DECENT BURIAL.

"Archie" Whilldin, the eccentric flower vender, whose death occurred almost as a public benefaction, will be buried in the Potter's Field. As soon as the facts and more chance acquaintances of "Archie" had made known a purse was made up among the newspapers, several of whom contributed and made up a purse sufficient for a decent burial. Poor "Archie" probably never knew how many people he could call his friends, as they responded to the call in the most liberally assuring Whilldin a proper interment. The room had been fumigated by the health officer in charge of the little bundle of personal effects that was left. They consisted mostly of a lot of letters addressed to Martha Whilldin, dated at Newark, N. J., but had ceased coming in the year 1896, when another letter from a distant relative informed them that his mother was dead. During this time no remittances had been received and the man died practically penniless.

HUSBAND IN TROUBLE.

Charles Gilbert, a young man who is evidently a newcomer to Pasadena, was made the subject of a warrant before Judge Klamroth's court charging him with having obtained money under pretenses through the issuance of alleged fictitious checks upon the Bank and Trust Company of Los Angeles. According to the information contained in the warrant there were two checks issued to the amount of $10 each, and when offered by the defendant they were accepted without question by two prominent local business men. Owing to the defendant's immature years it is probable that a settlement will be reached and the matter is brought into court. The parents of the youth also are said to be interesting in his behalf. Gilbert has a wife and baby dependent upon him for support.

HUNDRED FLITTINGS.

Members of the local Four Hundred are flitting from mountain resort to resort and many of them are remaining permanently at home, but entertaining is being done. The social interest this week is to be given Tuesday by W. D. McGilvray of Bellefontaine in honor of Miss Fanny Wilson, who has recently returned from Paris, where she has been studying.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Kingsley Macomber have completed their European tour and are booked for New York. They will return to Pasadena within two weeks. Harry Macomber has returned from an extended eastern trip. Mr. and Mrs. John B. Miller and children are at Ocean Park, as are also Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hamilton. Mr. and Mrs. E. Jardine and children go to Long Beach for a month, leaving this week; Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Brown will start soon for an eastern trip to be gone through September. Mr. Brown, who went to Alaska with Mr. and Mrs. William Hannah Nevin, returned Saturday. Mr. and Mrs. Stanbrough will leave in Seattle and will make the trip to the Canadian Pacific before coming to Pasadena.

Mr. and Mrs. Kayser and daughter, who are at Alpine Tavern. Mr. Kayser and son, Frederick, Henry Lee and Robert Staats return from Sulphur Mountain Springs. Miss Hertel and Miss Anita Hertel left today from Sulphur Mountain, having driven the entire way. Mrs. J. B. Phelps, Mrs. Dunn and Mrs. Forman left yesterday for works at Catalina.

The wife of Mr. and Mrs. F. H. D. Wilson of Philadelphia will be interested in the birth of their daughter. Mrs. Banks was formerly Miss Lillian Dobbins of Pasadena.

RECORD NEWS SAYINGS.

Have the savor of a neighborhood was aired in Judge Congdon's court today, when the case of the Mrs. C. H. Pillings came up. Mrs. Pillings, who resides near the corner of Maple street and Ellis avenue, was accused by William J. Simpson of having threatened bodily violence to his son, Jack Simpson, whereas the defendant accused the young American of making faces at her. Profanity on the part of the defendant was also alleged, among sundry accusations, and Judge Congdon took the broad-gauge view that maybe all the parties to the affair were a little to blame. At any rate, he dismissed the case against Mrs. Pillings and warned all those concerned against a repetition of the trouble. Attorney Elmer I. Moody represented the defendant before the court.

Miss Lydia Pflueger, a pretty young book-keeper, who formerly was in the employ of a local house, is authority for the statement that Seaman Pflueger, who was listed among the victims of the Bennington disaster, was her brother. Another brother has gone from this city to San Diego.

Through the McNally agency, Miss Blanche Rousselot, an artist from New York, has purchased two lots on the heights of Altadena, on which she will erect a pretty bungalow and studio.

VENICE.

EXPOUNDS CONFUCIANISM.

VENICE, July 22.—The interdenominational religious exercises of the Venice Assembly drew a crowd to the beach today. At the morning service every seat in the Auditorium was occupied, and hundreds were turned away, although many hundred extra chairs had been sandwiched in every aisle and vacant space. President B. F. Mills delivered a short address and was followed by Rev. Ng Poon Chew, the Chinese editor of San Francisco.

Speaking on "The Message of the Religions of China Compared with the Message of Christianity," he said: "The preservation of China for many centuries, while other kingdoms and empires rose, waned and disappeared from sight, may be attributed to her unique religions. There are three religions in China, Confucianism, Taoism and Buddhism. Confucianism, the state religion of China, is a system of philosophy, moral, intellectual and political. The supernatural and spiritual are never mentioned. Confucianism is full of humanity for humanity. It teaches the relation between man and man. It puts mental power above physical power. The foundation of the state rests not on a standing army, but on righteousness, justice and truth. Obedience to parents, honor to old age, is the pivotal point in the Confucian system. This principle has been carried to an extreme point so that worship of ancestors became a fixed custom among the Chinese people.

"The defects of Confucianism are many; among them it may be 'noted that under Confucian environment and society the ideal is in the past, so we turn our backs to the future while we look to the ancient for our pattern, our standard. Hence the backward movement of the Chinese people.

"It does not recognize God, sin, atonement, and the necessity of a Redeemer for the salvation of men; yet it does not come into positive conflict with Christianity. Whatever defects there may be in the Confucian system, they are mere negative wants; so Christianity may regard Confucianism as a handmaid for the work in the regeneration of China."

OTHER EVENTS VENETIAN.

During the afternoon there were band concerts and evolutions about and in the swimming lake by the Santa Monica Marching Club. These sports were witnessed by several thousand people, who later joined in the congregational chorus.

In the evening Prof. Raymond continued his series of travel lectures. Tonight he spoke before a large audience on "Berne, the Triumph of Democracy."

The programme arranged for tomorrow night will consist of an hour's musical numbers. Tuesday Mr. Mills will resume his morning lectures and there will also be talks on "Prisons and Prison Systems" by F. E. Lyon of Chicago and "The Story of Coöperation" by N. O. Nelson, the millionaire profit-sharer of St. Louis.

Elaborate preparations are being made at the beach to receive and entertain the Pasadena Board of Trade and Merchants' Association on the occasion of their annual beach outing. The date chosen is August 15, and it is expected there will be several thousand picnickers.

HUNTINGTON PARK.

STICK TO CITY IDEA.

HUNTINGTON PARK, July 23.—Undaunted by the action of the Board of Supervisors, who on Wednesday rejected the petition for incorporation on technical grounds, the Improvement Society met Friday evening at the school house. A. E. Walters presided. Secretary Tate presented, and the meeting adopted, a new petition, amending the boundary lines and eliminating the Cudahy, Gale Borden and Benson ranches, and fixing the northern boundary of the proposed incorporation district at Fruitland road. The new petition will be presented for hearing on August 8.

The meeting also voted to oppose the issue of bonds for $4000 proposed by the Florence School Trustees for the building of additional schoolhouses in that district, of which Huntington Park forms a part.

CATCH ALLEGED ROBBER.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

LANCASTER, July 23.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] A room at the Western Hotel here was entered late last night and a watch and chain and $35 in money were taken. Adolph Dufour, who is accused of having done the act and of having then gotten away to Mojave, was arrested at that place today by Deputy Sheriff R. Murphey. The prisoner was taken before Justice Buckley here and a charge of robbery was lodged against him. Dufour has been working on a ranch near Elizabeth Lake.

DEATH OF MRS. LORBEER.

POMONA, July 23.—Mrs. O. W. Lorbeer, wife of Olney W. Lorbeer of the Pomona Steam Laundry, died at the family home on Pasadena street Friday night after a lingering illness of two years. Besides the widower, she leaves four young children.

The funeral of Stephen W. Moore, who died at his home near Lordsburg Friday morning, was held from the Pomona Episcopal Church yesterday. The deceased was 39 years old and had resided in this locality many years.

Harry E. Russell will leave on Tuesday for a hunting and fishing trip along Kern River.

CITY TO PAY INSPECTORS.

DELAY IN WORK ON LONG BEACH STREETS.

Snag Bestowed by the Legislature at Its Last Session Which Will Cause a Good Deal of Annoyance. Annexationists of Alamitos Territory Start on Narrower Campaign.

LONG BEACH, July 23.—The legislature at its last session, so it has just been discovered here, has bestowed upon this city a snag which will materially delay street improvements. As there is a great deal of such work going on now the delay will cause much annoyance.

The Vrooman act under which public improvements are made has heretofore provided that the salaries of inspectors appointed on the work should be included with the other expenses and paid by assessment on the propety benefited. At the last session of the legislature changes were made in the law and Street Superintendent Taylor has discovered that this method of paying inspectors has been taken away from sixth class cities and applies only to cities of over 50,000 population.

As the law now stands inspectors must, if employed, be paid from city funds. As Long Beach at present is not burdened with cash it is probable that paving already planned will have to be delayed until the fall payment of taxes. Considerable work, however, is now under way and the salary of the inspectors will cut a big slice out of the funds on hand.

NARROWING ANNEXATION.

Convinced that it would not be a paying or profitable proposition to annex all the dairy farms, apricot, orange and lemon orchards adjacent to Long Beach and Alamitos, the Alamitos promoters of the movement for extending the city that way held a long conference last night and decided upon a change in their plans and a restriction of lines. Monday a committee will appear before the City Trustees and ask them to abandon all further proceedings in the election which has been called for August 23.

During the coming week petitions will be circulated for signatures asking that an election be called to vote on annexing the following territory: Beginning at the northeast corner of the city limits at the corner of Anaheim and Alamitos avenues, thence easterly along the south side of Anaheim road to Termino street, thence southerly to a point three miles out to sea, thence following the shore line west to the southeastern boundary of the city. This proposed tract embraces the residence suburban section, fairly well built up and desirous of fire and police protection and lighting facilities.

WHO'LL PAY THE BILL?

Justice Brayton has a knotty question to decide. Several months ago a man named Johnson sustained injuries from a Pacific electric car which resulted in a dislocation of the hip and hemorrhage. The company surgeon was not available and Drs. Perce and Harvey were called. Their bill subsequently presented for $100 was denied, though Claim Agent Fawler in a letter offered them $5 for a first visit. Dr. Perce sues the company for $100. The plea of the company is that it is not liable for any orders of its employés as they have instructions to call in none but company surgeons. The complainant's attorney avers that the claim agent's letter offering a fee of $5 is an acknowledgment of the company's liability. Justice Brayton has the case under advisement.

CHRISTIANS COMING.

The convention of the Christian Church of Southern California and Arizona will convene August 3 in the Tabernacle for a ten-day session. At its close there will be a welcome to a big delegation of eastern Christians who will stop here en route to their national convention in San Francisco. The delegates' train will be run to Long Beach and remain there from Friday night until Monday. Excursive preparations are being made to entertain them.

SEASHORE NEWS JOTS.

The Long Beach Athletic Association has been organized and a complete constitution and bylaws adopted. Temporary officers are: Prof. H. W. Howland, president; H. W. Hericks, secretary; Clark Shaw, treasurer. Class nights will be Tuesday and Friday under the supervision of Prof. Howland.

Rev. Charles T. Murphy, rector of St. Luke's Episcopal Church has been granted two months' absence and with Mrs. Murphy will go East to Maine. While he is away the pulpit will be filled by Rev. Charles E. Perkins of Salt Lake City and Dr. Van Deerlin of Lompoc.

Monday will be a big day with the local lodge of Eagles. It is the first anniversary of the lodge and big visiting delegations will be here from Los Angeles, San Pedro, Pasadena and San Bernardino. A special class will be initiated after which there will be a select dance at the sun pavilion, followed by a banquet at the Ocean Front Café. Several of the grand lodge officers will be present.

Hot weather drove thousands to the beach today who sought comfort in the surf and in the plunge. The cars were packed all day and a conservative estimate of the crowd on the beach and wharf would be from 15,000 to 18,000.

SANTA MONICA.

KELLER PROPERTIES SELL.

SANTA MONICA, July 23.—The H. W. Keller residence at Ocean and Oregon avenues and Mr. Keller's "Windermere" on Ocean avenue have been sold, the former to Mrs. R. Borde and the latter to Mrs. Wilson of Los Angeles. The prices are not made public, although it is known that the consideration involved in the two sales was about $23,000.

The Los Angeles-Pacific electric line announces a reduction commencing tomorrow in the passenger fare between Santa Monica and Playa del Rey. Heretofore the fare has been 10 cents. It is now cut in half.

Fishing in the ocean has been excellent all day. Mackerel have been running heavy and those who fished from the North Beach pier were rewarded with generous catches of fish of good size.

Mrs. Julia H. Perry of Fifth street, who recently wrote to Andrew Carnegie at Skibo Castle complaining that his free public library at Santa Monica was not free, is herself a Scot and claims to be the grand-daughter of Jannet Blackman, the peasant songstress of whom Bobbie Burns speaks as "his sweet Jannet." Mrs. Perry is a pioneer of California, and for fifty years was a school teacher in this State, giving instructions in the different branches of a woman's education. She is the mother of the late Andrew S. Hallale, who when quite a young man, invented and introduced the cable-car system.

Mr. and Mrs. William Keane, St. Louis; George L. Andrews, Seattle; Mrs. John T. Gaffey, San Pedro; Mrs. E. Hillyard, Portland; G. M. Blake, Monrovia, are at the Arcadia.

Mrs. A. C. Sadd and daughter, Myrtle, are here for the summer from San Bernardino.

OCEAN PARK.

GRADING, BUILDING, PERSONAL.

OCEAN PARK, July 23.—Work is going ahead on the grading of the Silver Strand tract, east of the lagoon. Graceful bridges are to span that piece of water and the streets are to be improved with concrete walks and ornamental trees. Work is also about to start on the improvement of the Venice Gateway tract. To the south, in the Playa del Rey region, a substantial suspension bridge with a span of 140 feet is to be built. This will be of steel and concrete and will be twenty feet above the water. The illumination of the bridge will be one of the features of the bay by night.

DOWNEY.

DEATH OF MRS. M'KNIGHT.

DOWNEY, July 23.—Mrs. C. A. McKnight died at her home here this afternoon after an extended illness. Her age was 72. She had lived in Downey for three years. She was the mother of J. H. McKnight of Los Angeles, G. L. McKnight of Hollywood, Mrs. Frank Vogel of Santa Monica, and Mrs. H. A. Anderson of Hynes.

A. L. Ball, wife and daughters, Misses Adalaide, and Bess, left Thursday for Portland, and other northern points.

Dr. and Mrs. Quinten Rowley entertained with a dinner party Thursday, in honor of Mr. and Mrs. James Crawford of Nashville, Tenn.

CATALINA ISLAND.

HOTELS OVERFLOW.

AVALON, July 23.—Every hotel here was full last night and a good many people whom applied for quarters were turned away. Island Villa and the canvas city took the overflow.

The Metropole hop last evening was one of the most enjoyable functions of the season. The gathering was as large as the large parlors and reception room would accommodate, and the throng spread out on the spacious verandas.

The water polo games which proved popular here last season were started again today. The game lasted thirty minutes and was a tie, each side scoring but one touch-down. The contestants were a Los Angeles team composed of William Loomis, W. Whelan, R. Long, W. Watlington, S. Bassett, and W. Benjamin and the Avalon team, C. R. Cowan, Andrew Glassell, W. Allen, Banning Cline, A. H. Splitstoesser and W. Jerrue.

The steamer Hermosa started a series of excursions to the Isthmus today, leaving on Sundays at 10 a. m. and returning at 5 p. m., and on other days leaving at 4 p. m. and returning at 11 p. m. A large number patronized the first run.

George H. Cline and R. J. Dyas of Los Angeles spent Sunday here.

Expect a Cure

If you come to me for treatment, expect to be cured. If others have failed expect me to cure you. Unless I know that I can cure you I will not accept your case, and in every instance I treat by my own original, advanced and scientific methods.

I Treat Men Only

My Fees are Fair and Cures Are Permanent

My experience as a specialist in men's diseases is of a seventeen-year quality. I treat and cure "WEAKNESS," VARICOCELE, HYDROCELE, CONTRACTED DISORDERS, SPECIFIC BLOOD POISON, STRICTURE AND PILES. Consultation free at office or by mail.

Dr. O. C. Joslen
Corner Spring and Third streets, Ramona Block. 203½ South Spring street.

Rational and Effective Treatment That CURES

I have for years contended that personal treatment is the only reliable method of effecting a cure of chronic diseases, and the good results I obtain more than verify this statement.

Varicocele

My treatment effects a cure in four to six days; normal circulation is quickly restored and the wasting of withered parts made strong. Experimenting is not only expensive but harmful. My treatment is direct and for the exact cause, and you will note improvement from the first.

Stricture

Urethral obstruction, I effect a complete cure by removing all inflammation, soreness and diseased membrane; my treatment is the most effective and brings immediate results.

Contracted Diseases

I cure in a few days' time; when allowed to become chronic they are destructive to the reproductive system; stricture is a direct result of improper treatment. I remove every vestige of poison, and the cure is permanent.

Blood Diseases

Kidney and Bladder Troubles, rupture, piles, fistula and nervous conditions brought on by dissipation, excesses and wrong living.

My offices are the best equipped and my facilities are unsurpassed.

We are Specialists for Varicocele, Hydrocele, Stricture, Piles, Fistula, Blood Diseases, Contracted Diseases, Private Diseases, Loss of Vital Power, Kidney and Bladder Troubles

We want to impress the fact on everyone that our treatment is based on thoroughly scientific methods, the result of knowledge acquired in our twenty-one years of active and continuous work. Each individual treatment is prepared by us for this especial case. We have no use for and never prescribe patent medicines. Every case that comes to us is made our especial care and study. As the case progresses every condition is carefully noted, the patient getting just such treatment as conditions call for. We are thoroughly versed in all complications that may arise, and thus enabled to guard against many conditions that may delay or prove detrimental to the patient. We wish it implicitly understood that we always mean just what we say. We never advertise to do what we cannot do.

Our Medical Journal Free

Downstairs at our entrance, 203½ South Broadway, you can help yourself to our medical journal; an extensive description of our especial work is given. It contains full information which we cannot publish in our advertisement. If you live out of the city write for one.

You Get Up

In the morning tired, languid, and frequently with a headache that is almost unbearable. You have been nervous, restless and sleepless night after night, and gloomy and irritable during the day. This nervous exhaustion affects the heart, lungs and other organs that depend upon the nerves for motive power. Then the stomach fails to digest the food; the heart action is weak, and circulation poor, and the kidneys and liver inactive.

What you need is not a stomach, head, kidney or liver medicine, but Dr. Miles' Nervine to soothe and feed the nerves and build nerve tissue.

"My wife was subject to severe mental strain, which resulted in nervous prostration. The first symptoms were uncontrollable crying and melancholy spells, which increased to such an extent that for over a year she would have a spell every day of from four to six hours duration. She required the constant attention of her physician and attendants. She suffered great pain and anguish. The best physicians attending her could give no relief, and she finally became almost of unsound mind. As a last resort I began giving her Dr. Miles' Nervine and Tonic, and noticed that her spells next day were not so severe, and they gradually disappeared altogether. She has had no recurrence of the spells, and is gaining in health and strength."
J. P. OVERHOLSER, Sterling, Ill.

Dr. Miles' Nervine is sold by your druggist, who will guarantee that the first bottle will benefit. If it fails, he will refund your money.

THE CITY IN BRIEF.

NEWS AND BUSINESS.

Robbed While Sleeping.

W. O. Snyder, No. 452 South Hill street, is mourning the loss of $160 and a gold watch, which he alleges were stolen from his room while he slept Saturday night.

Bouncing Babies, Paternal Pride.

Allen Durand, assistant cashier of the Cooperative Savings Bank, who lives at No. 729 Stewart street, has double cause to rejoice today. Yesterday afternoon two big bouncing twins came to his house, a boy and a girl. Mother and the children are all well.

Odd Fellows' Special Service.

Rev. Arthur S. Phelps conducted a special service for Acme Lodge, I.O. O.F., yesterday morning at the Central Baptist Church on Alvarado and Pico streets. The subject of the discourse was "Initiatory Symbols." Mrs. Edna Tinker Grewell gave several vocal selections.

For Bonsall Funeral.

Orders have been issued by Commander W. W. Dorward of Bartlett-Logan Post, G. A. R., for the post, including the drum corps and firing squad, to report at the Washington-street entrance of Rosedale cemetery at 2:30 p. m. today to attend the burial of Maj. W. H. Bonsall.

Gen. Blackmar Memorial.

Memorial exercises for Gen. W. W. Blackmar, late commander-in-chief of the G. A. R., were held Saturday evening by Bartlett-Logan post and corps. A committee representing the several posts of the city will meet at the Courthouse Tuesday to arrange for a general memorial service for Gen. Blackmar. c

Mrs. Gilman's Lecture.

Mrs. Charlotte Perkins Gilman will lecture tonight at Simpson Auditorium on "The Nature of Humanity." Mrs. Gilman, who is a niece of Edward Everett Hale, is a writer and lecturer of note, and this evening's address is said to be one in which she has embodied a number of her most recent observations.

Fire in Laboratory.

Fire of unknown origin started in the laboratory of Dr. W. I. Seymour No. 428 West Sixth street last night and spread quickly to the roof, destroying a portion of the building which is one of the oldest residences in the city. A chemical engine crew subdued the flames. The damage will amount to about $500.

Landed on His Head.

D. D. Morse, 60 years of age, a one-armed painter living on Vernon avenue, Pasadena, in attempting to alight from a moving Mt. Lowe car at Third and Main streets yesterday afternoon, was thrown upon his head, and suffered numerous bruises and a gash across his nose, which was stitched by Dr. Quint at the Receiving Hospital.

Some Excuse Needed.

J. T. Turner, a lodger at the Santa Rosa House, complained to the police yesterday morning that he had been held up at Fourth and Los Angeles streets Saturday night, beaten over the head and robbed of $1 by highwaymen. The police looked upon his tale as fishy after going through his clothes and finding $20 still left in his purse. They are of the opinion that he was trying to frame a good excuse to explain how he came by a broken head in some convivial brawl.

Lottery Ticket Factory.

Policemen Strode and Willett yesterday afternoon discovered the source of all of the lottery tickets that have flooded Los Angeles' Chinatown recently. In a shack at No. 514 North Los Angeles street Chin Long, known to the police as an angel of the lottery and fan-tan players, was caught printing the curious bits of paper which are so much sought after by local Celestials. Chin was charged with a misdemeanor and released on bail in the sum of $100.

Commissioner Kilbey Coming.

Commissioner George A. Kilbey, in charge of the Salvation Army west of Chicago, will arrive in Los Angeles tomorrow for a visit of several days. On Thursday night he will deliver an address in Simpson Auditorium on the subject of "Evangelizing South Africa, and the Salvation Army in the Boer War." Admission will be free, and doors will open at 7 o'clock. Commissioner Kilbey was in the field with the armies in the African republic, and his account of the Salvation Army work there will be from his personal observations.

Tourists Seeing the Sights.

Three excursion parties of tourists from the East were in Los Angeles yesterday. They made up a total of over one hundred and twenty guests distributed among three hotels. One was a Gillespie party fom Pennsylvania. This was in charge of T. E. Davis of Washington, D. C. It consisted of fifty-four people, mostly women, from the Lehigh Valley towns. This party was at the Lankershim. At the Van Nuys Broadway hotel are a Brown and Due party of thity-five people from Birmingham, Ala. They are on their way to the Portland Fair. Today and tomorrow they will take in Catalina and other resorts. The Westminster Hotel entertained a party of over forty people from Vermont. They left town last night.

County Jail Meeting.

Mrs. Mairn Boyd and her regular corps of evangelistic workers were assisted in the meeting at the County Jail yesterday afternoon by Mrs. Emily F. Boller of the Olivet Congregational Church and six members of the Young People's Society of that church. They furnished a programme of solos and duets, and an instrumental solo was given by Mrs. Mary J. Claflin of Boston. Some of the "boys" who will leave this week for the State penitentiary, yesterday with tears in their eyes expressed their appreciation of the work of Mrs. Boyd. Several young men will finish their sentences this week, and Mrs. Boyd would like to find employment for them, and suitable clothes to help them into positions. Anyone interested in helping this work may telephone her at Main 1734.

"Strike Out Reverend."

Dr. Alexander J. McIvor-Tyndall addressed an audience at Blanchard Hall last evening on the theme "Who Are God's Ministers?" The lecture was preceded by a piano recital by M. De Chauvenet, who delighted his auditors with selections from classical composers. Dr. McIvor-Tyndall introduced his discourse with a few remarks respecting the accepted idea of special fitness for the ministry, and the claim of special revelation. The speaker said in part: "The word 'reverend' should be stricken from the vocabulary of every free individual. It has no depth of meaning. It is merely the title of a profession, and as such the word 'reverend' is inappropriate. Spiritual awakening never came, and never can come to any man, merely through a study of comparative religions, nor yet through seclusion from the world, and contemplation of the scriptures. The man who cannot write his name legibly may be a better spiritual teacher than the one whose years have been spent within the walls of a theological school."

Hollenbeck Lodge, No. 313, F. & A.M., will confer the First Degree Tuesday evening, July 25. J. WILL Dick, Secretary.

OUT OF JAIL AND IN AGAIN.

Ecaping Prisoner Risks Life to Gain Liberty.

Falls Thirty-five Feet to a Cement Sidewalk.

Picked up Nearly Dead and Returned to a Cell.

"Say, boss, just you call de police patrol and de ambulance; I'se 'scaped from de City Jail."

These were the first words feebly uttered by J. C. Cooper, a colored barber, under nine months' jail sentence after a fall of thirty-five feet from the third story of the City Jail to the sidewalk, as a result of a desperate attempt to break jail at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

It was through the medium of two electric-light wires twisted together and wrapped about the leg of a wall sink that Cooper essayed to slide from an upper window on the Hill-street side of the building to liberty.

But Cooper failed correctly to gauge the carrying capacity of the wire. It broke just as he swung off from the window sill, and the reckless negro shot down through space like a black flash.

Two men standing under the jail windows engaged in conversation narrowly escaped playing buffer for the escaping criminal. As it was he struck with a squashy smack on the sidewalk between them, smashing the lower bones of his left leg and fracturing the point of the jaw, with which he attempted to shatter the paving stone.

All of this tended to discourage Cooper in his jail breaking. He called for the ambulance to take him back to his cell.

Cooper is the negro who was sentenced to nine months in jail a short time ago for a murderous assault upon Officer King with a razor, July 4. He has already served a sentence in the County Jail.

Yesterday afternoon he was detailed with three other prisoners to hang dors in the new assembly-room on the upper floor of the jail building. Under pretext of a sudden attack of indigestion he passed into an adjoining room, caught up a coil of electric-light wire and essayed to make his escape.

The officer in charge of the prisoner, missing his man, stepped into the back room and, looking out of the window, saw him writhing upon the pavement almost forty feet below.

CREW OF FOUR LOST.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

DELAWARE BREAKWATER, July 22.—The yawl yacht Narkeeta, owned by Dr. H. A. Hare of Philadelphia, sunk today in the main ship channel off West Brandywine shoal, in six fathoms of water. Dr. Hare and friends were taken off by the yacht Circe. The crew of four men is missing. The masts show at low water.
